GENERAL NEWS BUDGET.

The Boiler of a Locomotive Explodes at Mansfield, La., with Fatal Results.

Evidence Increasing Against Scheller, of Milwaukee.

THE NAME OF JAY GOULD FORGED

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

Milwaukee, Jan. 19.—Scheller's whereabouts are still unknown, but the officials say he can be produced at any time the district attorney makes a demand. The case will not be taken up until after [illegible], and the investigation of the origin and character of the Newhall house fire will be conducted before the grand jury. The latter institution was practically abandoned in Wisconsin six years ago, but the judge of any court of record has a right to call a grand jury, which will be done in this case.

The remains of the 43 unidentified bodies will be interred in the Forest Home cemetery, whose officers have offered a burial site.

A meeting of the clergy of all denominations is called to make arrangements and agree upon ceremonies for a public funeral. The day is yet to be [illegible].

Careful computing places the number of victims of the catastrophe at seventy-five; seventeen of the number, killed by jumping, were taken to the morgue on the morning of the fire. Eight survivors have died since, three of whom were identified. Thirty-three unrecognizable remains were taken from the ruins up to to-night. The list of saved contains 102 names. Taking Chief Clerk Tice's estimate of 116 and 67 others in the hotel at the time of the fire for granted, these figures leave four unaccounted for, presumably in the ruins.

Evidence Accumulating Against Scheller.

Milwaukee, Jan. 19.—Scheller, the alleged Newhall house incendiary, was brought back to jail quietly this morning. It is now settled beyond a doubt that he never left the city, but was concealed in the house of one of the deputies of the sheriff. Proof that Scheller removed his stock the day previous to the fire accumulates. It has now come to light that [illegible] removed the balls of seven billiard tables before the fire. The value of the stock secreted is [illegible].

Search in the ruins this forenoon resulted in finding [illegible] body, making forty-six bodies recovered and [illegible] still to be accounted for.

"No Pay, No Work."

[illegible] City, Jan. 19.—The Novelty theater variety [illegible] the scene of a riot to-night. Monday [illegible] became manager of the place, [illegible] a series of performers. He had some [illegible], and the carpenters entered suit, [illegible] the receipts at the box office on Wednesday [illegible] seized by a constable. That being insufficient, the constable was again at his post to-night. [illegible] concluding there were no chances of [illegible] their salaries at the end of the week, organized [illegible] headed by four song and dance men, [illegible] quartette. Their ultimatum was "[illegible]." The manager had not money to [illegible], and informed the audience there [illegible] performance, and the money would be [illegible]. The [illegible] cent gallery claimed they had [illegible] admission, and treasurer Moore paid [illegible] until the money was exhausted. The [illegible] made a rush for the treasurer's office, [illegible] was forced open and the place was literally [illegible]. The manager and treasurer were at [illegible], but policemen beat back the mob and arrested [illegible] Moore. A crowd of one hundred or [illegible] of the audience, and performers followed the [illegible] to the police station, where they entered a [illegible] of obtaining money under false pretenses [illegible] and treasurer were held.

Western Union Privileges.

[illegible], Jan. 19.—Judge Ingraham finally settled [illegible] order, defining what special [illegible] the Western Union company stock should [illegible] from the use of the transfer [illegible] of the company. The effect of this order [illegible], is to permit the Western [illegible] transfer books of the company [illegible] of all shares of the company [illegible] such shares as constitute that limited [illegible] which it was decided last December [illegible] Judge Russell (both of whom have [illegible] bench) and Judge Friedman, to have [illegible], amounting in the aggregate to [illegible] and representing the shares issued under [illegible] agreement. This limited portion [illegible] on the transfer books exclusively [illegible] of the persons or the directors, [illegible] it was then first issued, irrespective [illegible] transfer evidences already owned [illegible]. All other questions are ordered [illegible] argued next Wednesday, and this is the [illegible] so far.

[illegible] Board of Steam Navigation.

[illegible], Jan. 19.—The eleventh annual session of the [illegible] of steam navigation began this afternoon. [illegible] were passed asking President [illegible] international commission for a [illegible] examination for color blindness for sea [illegible], and to arrange a standard color [illegible] and signal lights for all ocean going [illegible]. A resolution was unanimously adopted [illegible] congress to appropriate the $600,000 [illegible] the treasury which has been collected [illegible], pilots, mates and engineers [illegible] of the cost of the steamboat inspection service [illegible] that sum build three snug harbors, [illegible] lakes, one on the seacoast and one on the [illegible] for disabled and indigent men of [illegible].

[illegible] Name.

[illegible], Jan. 19.—Inspector Byrnes was informed [illegible] Washington E. Conner, of Wall [illegible] of W. E. Conner & Co., that during [illegible] received what purported to be an [illegible] Gould, directing him to sell on [illegible] shares of Delaware, Lackawanna [illegible] railroad stock. Something in the [illegible] aroused his suspicion, and [illegible] ascertained that the order was a [illegible]. Inspector Byrnes said that it was a very [illegible] advertisement. He appears in [illegible] offering a reward of $1000 [illegible] and conviction of the person who [illegible] to the order.

A Senatorial Curiosity.

[illegible], Jan. 19.—The Times says: With the [illegible] senatorial term of David Davis, of [illegible] of the most curious experiments [illegible]. Exactly what Davis thinks of [illegible] the field of political neutrality no [illegible] probably knows. His career as [illegible] proved that whatever may be brought to [illegible] a millennium, a senator without a [illegible], a curiosity, without positive value [illegible] lucky accidents he has been given a [illegible] influence which he never expected nor [illegible].

[illegible] Going to Pieces.

[illegible], Jan. 19.—Changes are making in Stewart's [illegible], at Broadway and Chambers street, [illegible] converting it into an office building. [illegible] strengthened inside with brick [illegible] an additional weight of two stories that [illegible]. Brick walls, three feet in [illegible] to the center to surround the [illegible] which elevators will run. It is expected [illegible] building will contain 400 offices, [illegible] completed before next summer.

[illegible] Boiler Explosion in Louisiana.

[illegible], Jan. 19.—The engine on the Mansfield [illegible] branch of the New Orleans & [illegible] exploded at the depot in Mansfield yesterday. [illegible] Rochford, Tom Mars, fireman, [illegible], brakeman, the two last named colored, [illegible] killed. Mrs. Inglas and Mr. [illegible] operators at Marksville, were [illegible] Taylor, freight agent, and several [illegible] seriously hurt. The body of Tom [illegible] 50 yards, passing through a plank [illegible] a vestige of the wreck is left on the [illegible] had just blown a whistle to start [illegible] occurred.

[illegible] Blame where it Belongs.

[illegible], Jan. 19.—The coroner's jury on the [illegible] of the railroad disaster on the Troy [illegible] road, find the superintendent, engineer, [illegible] and train dispatcher criminally careless [illegible] for the death of Frank C. Brundage [illegible] Riordan, and censure the road for having [illegible] and underpaid employes, overburdened [illegible] track and having poor stoppage, but commend [illegible] efforts of the road to improve their service [illegible] time of the accident. The men mentioned [illegible] arrested.

Convention of Livestock Owners of Texas.

[illegible], Jan. 19.—A convention of all the cattle, [illegible] and horsemen of Texas has been called to meet [illegible] Colorado City, Feb. 1, to discuss the livestock [illegible] and state-lease question, to determine what [illegible] stockmen shall pursue to secure legislation [illegible] to their interests and to organize a [illegible] to look after their affairs at the capitol [illegible] the session of the legislature.

Reduction in Eastern Telegraph Rates.

New York, Jan. 19.—On January 20th the Western [illegible] Telegraph Company will make 25 cents the [illegible] rate for a message of ten words between [illegible] in New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, [illegible] Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York city and [illegible] part of Maine. Orders have already [illegible] to reduce the present rates of 30, 35, 40 [illegible] to the 25 cent rate.

ASSOCIATED PIONEERS.

A Grand Dinner and Reminiscences of the Mexican War, Crossing the Plains, and the Days of '49 in California.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

New York, Jan. 19.—The eighth annual dinner of the associated pioneers was attended last evening by seventy five members and their guests at the house of Martin Ellis, Fifth avenue. The walls of the rooms were decorated with legends of pioneer days, such as "Gold Bar," "Hell Tail Bend," "Poker Hollow," "Humbug Diggings," and "Rough and Ready." The menu card displayed descriptive scenes of the days of '49. Hon. Dellas Strong, recently elected president of the society, delivered the salutatory address, in which he welcomed the guests and members, and thanked them for the honor conferred by his election. He referred to the early days and influence of pioneers upon the present days.

Letters of regret were read by Secretary Clark from Mayor Edson, Admiral George F. Emmons, [illegible] Merchant, J. S. Spinney, H. Loomis, J. C. Fremont, F. L. Pinto, Geo. F. Hooper, Jonathan Lloyd and H. M. Gibson.

The toast "California" was to have been responded to by Rev. J. Hyatt Smith, but Rev. Dr. Porter was called to reply to the toast.

The following letter was received from Ex-Governor Leland Stanford:

Francis D. Clark, Secretary: Sir—In consequence of a prior engagement, I have, with regret, to inform you that I cannot accept the kind and complimentary invitation of your society to the annual dinner on Thursday the 18th inst.

Gen. Dent, in response to the toast "The Day We Celebrate," said the discovery of gold brought people to follow almost the identical paths of the early Spanish discoverers. He was one of three who crossed the plains. The Missouri river was the dividing line of American discovery then. West of that river was as new to us as Plymouth rock was to the pilgrims of New England. When I arrived in California not a barrel of flour was raised in this country, although the country was then as old as the discovery of the Pacific. It was a terra incognita. No event except the declaration of independence ever had such an effect as this discovery of gold. The first celebration of this event in which he had participated was in Coloma, the spot where gold was discovered. At that meeting he (the speaker) was deputized to bear to Gen. Sutter the first recognition of his rights as the proprietor of the first gold mine. He thought this day was as much worthy of celebration as the day of the landing of the forefathers.

Gen. Sweeney, in response to the toast, "Our Army and Navy," said the response to this toast had been replied to in olden times by the roar of cannon, and he was one of those who could best answer, by referring to the plains of Mexico.

Gen. Johnson, replying to the toast of "Veterans of California," pleaded ill health and called upon Gen. Gibson to take his place.

Gen. Gibson said the names of Sutter, Kearney, Fremont and Stockton, were names which belonged to the early history and conquest of California. He recited incidents of the conquest of San Francisco from the control of the Mexicans in '47. He came from Baltimore to take part in this celebration, and to pay tribute to the author of the "Star Spangled Banner," whose story was reflected in the discovered California.

Wm. J. Hill sang a song of his composition entitled "Days of '49."

Judge David McAdam responded to the toast "Woman."

A toast to the memory of John A. Sutter was drunk in silence.

The president then called upon Francis Clark, the secretary, to recite a poem "In Memoriam," by Sam Morford.

A song by Samuel Cupham was then sung by Bell, the pioneers joining in the chorus.

E. C. Kimble responded to the toast "Our Guests."

"The Days when we went Gold Hunting," was then sung by J. C. Mouble, and the pioneers supplied the chorus.

"A Legend of Yuba" was answered by J. A. Speery. He described the costume of old miners, their good nature and generosity.

The last regular toast, "Early Drama of California," was responded to by an old actor, J. J. McCloskey.

An original recitation by Hugh McDermott, followed and the song of "The Days of '49," brought the evening to a close.

There were present at the dinner: E. C. Kemble, F. D. Clark, J. H. Welch, W. Cannon, E. R. Anthony, J. D. Titorth, R. W. Dowling, A. G. Ferris, J. Gault, Gen. Gibson, D. W. Jenness, C. Lydecker, J. J. McCloskey, Gen. Dare, Gen. Sweeney, J. A. Speery, Henry Wilson, Gen. Fabius, with guests and several sons of the pioneers.

WEATHER REPORTS

Indicate a General Decline in Thermometer.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

NEBRASKA.

Omaha, Jan. 19.—At 8 A. M. the mercury indicated 26 degrees below zero. During the middle of the day it was 16 degrees below, and it is falling again this evening. It is the coldest snap known here in many years. The cold wave came from the west. It is exceedingly cold along the whole line of the Union Pacific. The effect of the storm on the railroad was not nearly so severe as anticipated. The Union Pacific is clear of snow and trains arrived and departed as usual to-day with the exception of being three hours late, caused by waiting for delayed trains from Chicago. All eastern trains connected with the Union Pacific, except the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul and the Wabash trains from the east, to-night are all more or less late. The Burlington & Missouri River system in Nebraska is all clear except between Hardy and Wymore, on the southern division travel was entirely suspended to-day on the Nebraska division of the Chicago, Minneapolis, St. Paul and Omaha. The Missouri Pacific express, which left here last night for St. Louis, got stuck in a snow bank five miles south of Papillion, and there took the Union Pacific train back to Omaha. Travel is more or less interrupted on the Missouri Pacific.

Omaha, Jan. 19.—The fall of light, dry snow over the state, accompanied by high winds, drifted on the railway tracks and will delay trains in the central and northern portions of the state several hours, and will blockade the trains from the north.

KANSAS.

Larned, Ks., Jan. 19.—The worst storm within the memory of the oldest inhabitants struck this section of country about 3 o'clock yesterday. A heavy fall of sleet, hail and snow has been driving from the northwest for the last eight hours. All the range is thickly covered with ice and snow. The cold is intense. Cattle and especially sheep will suffer terribly. It is safe to predict the losses to sheep and stockmen in this region for the next 48 hours, will be greater than for any corresponding length of time since the settlement of the country.

Topeka, Jan. 19.—A heavy snow storm is coming from the west. Santa Fe railway officials have advices that it is the worst storm for years. They have a large force of men at the depot ready to go west to clear the track.

UTAH.

Ogden, U. T., Jan. 19.—The coldest [illegible] ever known in this territory, severe at present [illegible] part of the Pacific slope, extending from here north to the British possessions. It is 15 degrees below zero to-night, or 35 degrees lower than the coldest night here before known.

COLORADO.

Denver, Jan. 19.—Extreme cold weather prevails here, the thermometer registering 15 degrees below zero. Mountain towns report the cold most intense. At Georgetown, 26 degrees below zero, the coldest ever known.

DAKOTA.

Yankton, Jan. 19.—A blizzard and severe cold weather has prevailed for 24 hours; 22 degrees below zero.

CANADA.

Montreal, Jan. 19.—Heavy snow delays the trains from 4 to 11 hours.

RAILWAY RUMBLINGS.

Encouraging Report from the Northern Pacific Directors.

New York, Jan. 19.—At a meeting of the Northern Pacific directors yesterday Vice President Oakes, presented his report. He says work on the Bozeman tunnel had advanced [illegible] feet, [illegible] and a temporary track was being laid over the mountain at this point, pending the completion of the tunnel. The coal bunkers at New Tacoma, holding [illegible] tons of coal, [illegible]. The number of persons arriving at Portland last year in excess of departures was 25,113. The outlook for a great surplus for the next season from Oregon and Washington territory was [illegible]. There was also increasing cattle business in western Washington territory and north in Idaho. He would inaugurate a trip to Alaska. It could be made in June and the steamers would [illegible] from Portland.

Air Line from Boston to New York.

Boston, Jan. 19.—The New York and Boston air line railroad, which has obtained a charter in Massachusetts, intends to build a double track road in an air line [illegible] miles shorter than by [illegible], at a cost of [illegible] and run trains in [illegible] hours. [illegible]

Board of Indian Commissioners before Teller.

POOR PROSPECTS FOR FAST MAILS.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

Washington, Jan. 19.—The board of Indian commissioners have been in session here and have just completed their labors, though what they are all about nobody can quite understand. These commissioners are a set of amiable philanthropists who have no power and draw no salaries. They are supposed to exercise a general supervision over the Indian department with a view of preventing dishonesty and injustice. It is odd enough to have such an organization, but it is not altogether certain that commissioners would know if an Indian agent or contractor were stealing, for these gentlemen are no wiser in their opinion than children of eight, and even if the commissioners could not be hoodwinked, certain gentlemen who draw no salaries cannot afford to give a great deal of their time to public service. The principal business of the board, as far as any practical evidence, was to get the secretary to recommend to congress a large appropriation for their expenses, but only the small amount of $2000 is now appropriated.

Mr. Teller expressed doubts as to whether the services of the board are worth an increased sum. The only service rendered the government by commissioners, he told them, was their allowing the government to be defrauded in the purchase of 12,000 head of cattle to the extent of $4 per head.

Mr. Fisk, president of the board, promptly [illegible] of the indictment, but [illegible] in light in that no member of the board was present at the time the contract was let, only the chairman of the board and the commissioner of Indian affairs, Mr. Price. Whereat Mr. Price became very uneasy but did not participate in the debate.

Mr. Teller admitted the plea exonerated the commissioners personally, but he intimated that it still did not prove anything as to the usefulness of the board. It must be very painful to Price to have remarks of the kind made about the contracts let by him or under his supervision, but he has an easy defense, which consists in publishing a contradicting [illegible] the facts, but presenting them as a complete refutation of the criticism [illegible]. The morning [illegible] dispatch appeared in the Chicago Times regarding some beef and flour contracts. Price published a letter in defense of himself regarding the flour contract in a paper here. He admitted he [illegible] the flour in question the full amount that was being paid for it to Los Pinos, transportation included, expensive transportation from Salt Lake City to Ouray, and manifested much indignation that wicked people denied him the credit for not having the flour hauled to Los Pinos and then across the country to Ouray.

Progress of the International Commission.

The international commission appointed to negotiate a reciprocity treaty between the United States and Mexico are making satisfactory progress in their work. It is learned a free list has been agreed upon which, although it does not greatly increase the number of articles imported free into the United States from Mexico, it does, nevertheless, remove unnecessary duties. Among the articles upon the free importation list Mexico lays particular stress on sugar not above No. 16 Dutch standard in color. This is sought, not so much with a view to immediate free exportation of such sugar from Mexico into the United States as for the purpose of encouraging and developing the culture of cane and the manufacture of sugar in the former country. In the six years in which the treaty is to continue in force, there is no earthly possibility, in the opinion of Mexican representatives, that the exportation of sugar from Mexico should reach a very considerable proportion. At the same time sugar manufacture in that connection, with free admission of agricultural implements and machinery from the United States, would give free play to an important Mexican industry, and be reciprocally beneficial to both countries.

The list of articles to be imported free of duty from the United States into Mexico has been considerably enlarged. Among other things there have been added to it, petroleum, crude and refined, for illuminating purposes, machinery, agricultural implements, [illegible] made of iron and wood, a provision was all agreed upon, which will relieve the commerce of the United States from the transit duties hitherto imposed upon goods passing from state to state, and with the republic of Mexico. The provision will probably be agreed upon to permit the transportation of commodities from the United States to Mexico, and from Mexico to the United States under the terms of this treaty, in ships owned by citizens of either republic, within the territory of either; in other words, to allow the trade between the two countries under the treaty to be carried on in ships built in the United States and bought by citizens of Mexico, or built in Mexico and bought by citizens of the United States. There are other important provisions under consideration, but it is believed they have not yet taken final shape.

A caucus of republican representatives will be held to-morrow at the instance of several members of the ways and means committee. The subject of discussion is the tariff bill.

Evading the Chinese Restriction Law.

Washington, Jan. 19.—Officials at the treasury department are preparing, under direction of the secretary of the treasury, the transit, concerning transportation across the United States from the Atlantic seaports to San Francisco of Chinese laborers from Cuba en route to China. This is being done, although the secretary of the treasury considers the landing of these Chinamen at any port of the United States in violation of the provisions of the Chinese restriction bill, which became a law last winter. General Rosecrans called upon Secretary Folger to-day in reference to this subject, and was informed that the secretary of state had reached the conclusion that the law must be construed with reference to the treaty stipulations between this country and China, the caption of the bill being an act to execute certain treaty stipulations relating to Chinese, and on the strength of the recently delivered opinion of the attorney general, [illegible] that the Chinese had a right to land and be transported across the United States. An application had accordingly been made upon the treasury department to draft rules to govern their transportation. Secretary Folger's own opinion was in conformity with the original opinion of the attorney general, but the law could only be construed in one way, as granting that the Chinese could land in this country. General Rosecrans [illegible] it was at the instance of [illegible] their passage on the transports on lines that the treasury department obtained the second opinion of the attorney general and issued its directions. It is understood that at the instance of these lines that the second opinion of the attorney general has been given, and the action of the department is taken. The same [illegible] to be the ones which will supply the through transit business, on railways, of passengers, the object being to obtain the traffic for the benefit of railroads. The treasury department is now engaged in getting [illegible] rules against its own judgment.

Opinions on the Newly Adopted Plan of Representation.

Washington, Jan. 19.—The action of the republican national committee yesterday, was received by republicans generally in the lobby and [illegible] with approval. The committee has [illegible] the district plan of the [illegible] convention, and has provided for district representation. The convention required that the new plan should be announced a year before the meeting of the next convention and this order has also been obeyed. There will hereafter be no more unit rule or packed delegations. While the independent republicans generally favor a change of the present system of representation, such as would give greater prominence to the republican states, the representation of the old plan was not expected. There are the many contradictory plans to render it likely that any one of them would be adopted, and those who recognized that had the foundation of these plans would be unable to agree. The southern members of the committee were unanimously in favor of [illegible] a majority of the committee that the plan proposed by Mr. Chandler would have been decidedly advantageous to the party [illegible].

He thinks the United States may resort to all methods of procedure to protect its own interests that would be available to private parties in like circumstances.

Decidedly Opposed.

Washington, Jan. 19.—The difference between the house and senate in regard to the appropriation in the postoffice bill for fast mail facilities, will have to be settled by a conference. The committee of the house appropriated nothing for that purpose, while the senate by a large majority appropriated $[illegible], a sum sufficient to maintain the service for the next year similar to that of the current year. Last year the postmaster general was given $[illegible] for fast mail facilities. The pool arrangement of railroads west of Chicago was such as to prevent his doing anything in that direction, though he retained the fast mail service in the east, which the companies are willing to continue at a cost of $[illegible]. When the clause making appropriations for this service was under consideration in the house this year western members complained that the west had received no benefit from the appropriation and they voted against any appropriation whatever. The vote in both branches was so decisive that it is impossible to predict what the conference committee will do.

An Appeal in the Sugar Interests.

The following has been sent to each member of the Louisiana delegation in congress:

Dear Sir: In consequence of the statement circulated in Washington that eastern refiners have joined with Louisiana planters in asking for a higher duty on sugar, we, the undersigned, representing the refining interests of this city, and paying to the government from $6,000,000 to $7,000,000 per annum in duties, hereby emphatically declare we have entered into no such agreement and that we earnestly urge a large reduction in the duty on the article.

Rulings Misconstrued.

It is alleged the interior department's decision in the case of Phelps vs. the Northern Pacific has been misconstrued. That it was therein held that the lands withdrawn by the railroads under the [illegible] are open to settlement at any time before the filing of a map of their definite location. The portion that seems to have caused the misconception is said to have been a mere reiteration of the well known decision that such withdrawal could not include private locations made before the preliminary withdrawal.

Into the Hands of the Grand Jury.

Jersey City, Jan. 19.—Receiver Williams, of the City bank, has commenced suits against Isaac C. Soper, Edward L. Shaw and John Bench for trespass, damages in each instance being fixed at $20,000.

District Attorney McGill has decided to call the grand jury Thursday next to consider the cases of the accused officers of the two suspended banks.

Cabinet Session.

All members of the cabinet were present at the meeting to-day. The session was short. The proposed Mexican treaty was the only question of importance considered. A contract for two mail elevators for the new government building at St. Louis was awarded to W. E. Hale & Co., Chicago, for $[illegible]; contract for the sheet copper on the court house at Topeka, to Park, Scott & Co., Pittsburg.

Two Hundred Dollars Worth of Repentance.

The treasury department has been informed that Hurst, of Nashville, deposited to the credit of the United States, on account of conscience, $200 received by him from an unknown source, which he withheld under the belief the money was intended to benefit the Presbyterian Publishing company.

SENATORIAL CONTESTS.

Nebraska.

Lincoln, Jan. 19.—Another unimportant ballot for senator, the second taken, makes no change of any significance.

Lincoln, Jan. 19.—Fourth ballot for United States senator: Thayer 16, Millard 16, Norton 13, Manderson 8, Stickel 10, Saunders 12, Cowen 11, Brown 9, Valentine 9, Connor 6, others scattering.

Omaha, Jan. 19.—It was expected that an election of U. S. senator would take place to-day at Lincoln, and that the fight would be between Millard and Thayer, but the ballot showed no great change from yesterday, and hence the situation remains as badly mixed as ever. It is not likely now that an election will be accomplished until next week. It looks now as if the contest would be narrowed down to the two contestants, Millard and Thayer, with about even chances of election. To-day's ballot was as follows: Thayer 16, Millard 15, Cowen 11, Manderson 8, Morton 6, Conner 14; Brown, democrat, 8; Stickel, anti-monopolist, 13; rest scattering.

Colorado.

Denver, Jan. 19.—The senatorial deadlock still continues. The vote to-day [illegible] session to-day developed nothing new. Another caucus to-night.

Michigan.

Detroit, Jan. 19.—The legislature yesterday afternoon, took two more ballots for senator, Ferry 54, Stout 50, others scattering.

Detroit, Jan. 19.—First ballot in joint convention: Ferry 52, Stout 50, Hanchet 7, Burrows 7. Five other votes were taken, scattering among ten candidates.

Ferry Doesn't Come in Yet.

Detroit, Jan. 19.—The second ballot for senator to-day resulted the same as the first, except a change in the scattering vote. Ferry led 52.

Minnesota.

St. Paul, Jan. 19.—Fourth ballot: Windom 70, Wilson 31, no other change.

Diverse Opinions on the Election of Senator Hoar.

Boston, Jan. 19.—The Journal (republican) says: The re-election of Geo. F. Hoar is a great victory for the republican party in Massachusetts. It baffles the cunningly-devised schemes of Governor Butler and his democratic followers.

The Traveller (republican) says: It is a net result of victory to a republican faction at the expense of the whole party, and to the imminent peril of its future ascendancy in this state. As such it is a fit subject for rejoicing only among democrats.

Charges of Fraud in the Election of Senator Hoar.

Boston, Jan. 19.—A private dispatch from Washington indicates that a forgery committed resulted in the election of Senator Hoar. There was published to-day an alleged dispatch from Congressman Crapo, which was circulated among his supporters in the legislature, to the effect that those who voted for him and friends should vote for Hoar. An intimation to this effect in the evening papers caused much comment, and it is known Crapo never sent out or authorized such dispatch.

Probably a Canard.

Washington, Jan. 19.—Referring to a statement contained in a local news item late last night, relating that Hoar's securing Crapo's votes was the result of forgery, the National Republican this morning published an interview with Crapo, in which he says: "I did not know there was to be any meeting of my friends. I have not seen any Boston papers, and do not know the nature of the dispatch alluded to. I sent several dispatches." "But," said the reporter, "did you send a dispatch requesting your friends to vote for Mr. Hoar?" "No," answered Crapo, "I sent no such dispatch."

Crapo's Telegram.

Washington, Jan. 19.—Hoar's election and the alleged forged Crapo telegram, is the topic of discussion at the capital to-day. A friend of Crapo [illegible] the theory of the forgery. [illegible] Crapo told me he had telegraphed his friends to throw their strength for Hoar, and there is not a word of truth in the rumor of a forged dispatch.

Notwithstanding Hoar's assertion that Crapo informed him he [illegible] send the dispatch informing his friends to transfer their vote, Crapo appears to stand on the technicality of saying he sent no dispatch requesting or demanding the transfer. Crapo's friends, who read the dispatch, however, say there is no doubt but that the language prompted the transfer.

Senator [illegible] says Crapo read the dispatch to him. It was not in terms dictatorial, and only held he would not be approved if those who supported him should deem it advisable to vote for Hoar.

Results Just the Same.

Boston, Jan. 19.—Further investigation of the alleged forgery of dispatch or letter from Crapo, announcing his withdrawal from the senatorial contest, shows that no actual letter or telegram from Crapo was shown, hence there was no forgery, as stated in last night's dispatches. There is no question, however, of the fact that the statement was circulated at the state house that such an announcement had been received, and it was generally believed.

SENTENCE OF ANARCHISTS IN FRANCE.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

FRANCE.

Paris, Jan. 19.—Princess Mathilde and Prince Louis, whom Prince Jerome has repeatedly expressed a wish to see, have not been admitted to the conciergerie. Prince Jerome is allowed to see his advocates and as most of his political friends are lawyers, he can see nearly all of them.

Duc de Aumale was visibly disturbed when he heard of Floquet's bill.

News of Prince Jerome's arrest caused great sensation in the household of Count de Chambord.

Paris, Jan. 19.—Some of the morning papers give further details of the alleged organization of a civil war in the west of France with the help of Catholic workmen's clubs. It mentions the discovery of a legitimist conspiracy, called the Catholic coalition, forming a vast association, directed by Baron De Charette. They declare 33 legions have been formed in the west and center. Several officers of the army are implicated in the conspiracy and depots of arms are collected.

The La Verite declares the rising in La Vendee is fixed for the 21st inst.

The Figaro asserts that Prince Jerome Napoleon now regrets that he eliminated the phrase contained in the draft of his manifesto as follows: "Whoever he may be, the elect of the people will be their only legitimate chief."

Princess Clotilde, wife of Prince Jerome Napoleon, has arrived here.

It is probable that there will be no decision in the case of Prince Napoleon for the next few days.

The Orleans princes are expected to resign their commissions in the army.

London, Jan. 19.—The Times' Paris correspondent says: The prohibition of a display of religious emblems in the government bill which the cabinet has resolved to submit, is simply to those persons ready for religious persecution. The correspondent referring to the portion of the government bill against pretenders to the throne, says those against whom it is directed will be always and everywhere suspects, and this wretched piece of tyranny will survive in the gay and generous nation the shameful passion of dictation which may degenerate till the [illegible] of the world.

Defying the Prefect of Police.

Paris, Jan. 19.—Bernard, Bonapartist member of deputies, gave notice to the prefect of police last evening, that he has posted Prince Jerome Napoleon's manifesto outside his own house and challenged him to test its illegality by the action. Persons passing to the house pulled the placard down. The police decline to gratify Bernard's desire for martyrdom.

Movements of Prominent Foreigners.

Cannes, Jan. 19.—Gladstone arrived to-day. He was met at the depot by the mayor and Lord Wolverton.

Count De Paris left for Paris when he heard of the vote in the chamber of deputies in regard to pretenders to the French throne in order to consult with his relatives.

Anarchists Sentenced.

Lyons, Jan. 19.—The trial of anarchists is concluded. Emil Gautier, Bernard Bordat, of the Lyons section of journal Etendard and Prince Krapotkine, were found guilty and sentenced each to five years' imprisonment and to pay 2000 francs fine, two years under police supervision and to five years' deprivation of civil rights. Four of the accused were acquitted and ten, including the [illegible], were sentenced to pay 20 francs fine and five years deprivation of civil rights, nine to pay 100 francs fine and to the deprivation of civil rights and one year's imprisonment; eleven, including [illegible], to be deprived of civil rights and to pay a fine of 200 francs or 15 months' imprisonment; three to be deprived of civil rights and to pay a fine of 300 francs and two years imprisonment; three to ten years' police supervision, to pay a fine of 500 francs and to three years' imprisonment, and three were sentenced to four years' imprisonment and to pay a fine of 1000 francs and similar police supervision. The following sentences were passed in default: A prisoner accused refused to answer, was sentenced to two years' imprisonment and to pay 1000 francs fine and to five years' police supervision, and ten to five years' imprisonment and to 2000 francs fine and two years' police supervision.

There was great tumult on the delivery of the sentences and the court room was cleared. It is believed the condemned will appeal.

Trade Returns for 1882.

Paris, Jan. 19.—French trade returns for 1882 show an increase of imports amounting to 115,000,000 francs, and exports amounting to 34,000,000 francs. This is considered unfavorable as 98,000,000 francs of the increase in imports are under the head of manufactures, and the increase in exports is divided between manufactures and raw material.

A Nihilist's Punishment.

Lyons, Jan. 19.—Prince Krapotkin has been found guilty of inciting to anarchy, and sentenced to five years' imprisonment and a fine of 2000 francs.

Vessel Compelled to Return on Account of a Gale.

Liverpool, Jan. 19.—The steamship St. Dunstan, from Liverpool for Baltimore, has returned here. She experienced a gale on the 15th inst. The chief officer was drowned and five sailors were injured. The bulwarks was broken off close to the deck, and the cargo in two holds was damaged.

[illegible] The government will rely upon the support of all classes to maintain order.

A correspondent says the address was the more gratifying because inflammatory letters had been circulated, endeavoring to incite the people against Earl Spencer, and urging them to remember that Hynes, Walsh and Joyce were wrongfully [illegible].

Amsterdam, Jan. 19.—Three terrible explosions took place to-day in the gunpowder manufactory in Minden, where nearly all the houses were unroofed by the concussion. The neighboring towns and villages were much damaged. The loss of life is unknown, but it is feared fifty persons perished. Windows in Utrecht, which is eight miles from Minden, were broken.

He said a majority of the committee were satisfied the desire on the part of the people of that county to have such legislation as will enable them to refund their debt and get rid of a tainted reputation. He would ask the senate to consider the bill at an early day.

Moore of Tennessee introduced a joint resolution proposing a constitutional amendment granting to congress the power to provide, by appropriate legislation, for the legal enforcement of the obligation of contracts entered into by any state of the Union.

The judiciary resolution directing the military committee to investigate the charges of mismanagement of the Hampton Soldiers' Home was adopted.

Bingham of Pennsylvania, chairman of postoffices and post roads committee reported back the bill providing that whenever it shall become necessary to increase the speed on which mail is carried on any post route, such shall be advertised for the time required, which was passed.

Hiscock endeavored to dispense with the private business for to-day but failed to secure the necessary two-thirds vote, and the house went into committee of the whole with Blair in the chair, on private business. At 2 o'clock the committee rose and house passed two private bills.

A war claim bill then gave rise to some debate, and the yeas and nays were ordered on its passage, pending which, on motion of Robeson of New Jersey the house, at 3 o'clock, adjourned, and a republican caucus was held immediately.

WESTERN UNION TROUBLES.

A Decision that Compels the Company to Close their Transfer Books till the 25th Inst.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

New York, Jan. 19.—The resolution of the executive committee of the Western Union telegraph company, January 19th is as follows:

Whereas, The following communication has just been received by this company from its transfer agent, the Union Trust company of New York:

January 18.

To the Western Union Telegraph Company—Gentlemen: I have seen a copy of an order dated Jan. 17, 1883, made by Hon. Geo. C. Ingraham, justice of the superior court of this city, in the case of Wm. Williams, plaintiff, vs your company and other defendants. This order permits the reopening of the transfer books and transferring thereof of all stock of your company, excepting such of $15,526,590 of such stock as shall now be standing in the names of parties to whom it was originally issued, or shall be owned by such persons. I desire to call your attention to the position in which the terms of this order places this company, as your transfer agents. It imposes upon us the determining of the duty, as each certificate of stock shall be presented for transfer, whether it presents in whole or in part the excepted stock, and it would necessitate practically a search into the history of each certificate, and each operation, requiring so much care and time as would lead to great delays before the transfer of any considerable amount of stock could be effected. In some cases, the number of which could not well be estimated, except after actual experience, it would be difficult to determine whether the certificate actually represented any of the excepted stock or not. As 47 dividend exceeded a hundred shares, a certificate for each hundred shares would be made out and we could not determine in which hundred the proportion of excepted stock was represented. In regard to the second clause of the paragraph—"Or shall be owned by such persons"—it would be impossible for us to know the actual owners of the stock present it for transfer, as the order appears to draw a distinction between the holder of the stock, as evidenced by the certificate and its ownership. In point of fact, to undertake to delegate this duty, would involve an amount of responsibility that would probably belong in no way to our function as your transfer agent, and might involve us in liability as against which we could have no adequate protection. Yours very respectfully,

EDWARD KING, President.

Whereas, In the judgment of this board, as well as its transfer agent, it is wholly impracticable to make any general transfer of the shares of this company while the conditions imposed by the order above referred to are in force, and

Whereas, The question of withdrawal of such order is to be passed upon by the court, on the 24th inst; now, therefore

Resolved, That the transfer of the Western Union telegraph company be now closed and the same be reopened the morning of the 25th inst.

THE WRONG MAN.

Gebhardt Insults a Reporter, and from Present Appearances has a Duel on his hand.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

St. Louis, Jan. 19.—A very unpleasant difficulty occurred at the Southern hotel between Freddie H. Gebhardt, of New York, and Col. A. B. Cunningham, a well known journalist, now serving as a reporter on the Globe Democrat, causing great excitement. The facts are, Col. Cunningham was smoking a cigar in the hotel rotunda, when Gebhardt approached him and charged him with causing the publication in the Globe-Democrat of what pretended to be a diagram of neighboring apartments in the hotel of Gebhardt and Mrs. Langtry. Col. Cunningham denied he had done so, when Gebhardt called him a liar, cur, hound and scoundrel, and, shaking his fist in his face, challenged him to fight. Col. Cunningham, who is of an old and aristocratic Southern family, said he was a Southern gentleman and not versed in the science of boxing, but Mr. Gebhardt would hear from him before long. He then withdrew to the Democrat office where he had a consultation with the managing editor, who counseled him to sleep over the matter and decide upon his action the next day. He did so, and this afternoon John Jennings, dramatic editor of the Globe-Democrat, carried a challenge from him to Gebhardt, asking him to take a pleasure trip with him to the Indian territory, where, with a friend a-piece, they could settle their differences like gentlemen. Gebhardt had finished writing an answer accepting the challenge when Mrs. Langtry, who had got wind of the affair, stepped on the floor of his room and gained admission. After a long entreaty on her part, she got Gebhardt's promise that he would not accept the challenge and [illegible] he had acted hastily the previous evening he would apologize for his language.

Though not a fire eater, Col. Cunningham is known as a man of great personal courage. He entered the cavalry branch of the Confederate service when a mere boy and rose to the rank of captain, gaining a fine record as a gallant soldier. He is a dead shot with a pistol and a man of iron nerve, and a meeting between the gentlemen, which mutual friends are trying to prevent, could hardly occur without bloodshed.

ASSOCIATED PIONEERS.

A Grand Dinner and Reminiscences of the Mexican War, Crossing the Plains, and the Days of '49 in California.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

New York, Jan. 19.—The eighth annual dinner of the associated pioneers was attended last evening by seventy five members and their guests at the house of Martin Ellis Fifth avenue. The walls of the rooms were decorated with legends of pioneer times such as "You Bet," "Shirt Tail Bend," "Coon Hollow," "Humbug Diggings" and "Rough and Ready." The menu card displayed descriptive scenes of the days of '49. Hon. Dellas Strong recently elected president of the society delivered the salutatory address in which he welcomed the guests and members, and thanked them for the honor conferred by his election. He referred to the early days and influence of pioneers upon the present days.

Letters of regret were read by Secretary Clark from Mayor Edson, Admiral George F. Ammen, G. L. Merchant, J. S. Spinney, R. Logden, J. C. Fremont, F. E. Pinto, Geo. F. Hooper, Jonathan Boyd and H. M. Gibson.

The toast "California" was to have been responded to by Rev. J. Hyatt Smith, but Rev. Dr. Porter was called to reply to the toast.

The following letter was received from Ex-Governor Leland Stanford:

Francis D. Clark, Secretary—Sir:—In consequence of a prior engagement I have with regret to inform you that I cannot accept the kind and complimentary invitation of your society to its annual dinner on Thursday the 18th inst.

Gen. Darr in response to the toast "The Day We Celebrate," said the discovery of gold brought people to follow almost the identical paths of the early Spanish discoverers. He was one of three who crossed the plains. The Missouri river was the ultimo of American discovery then. West of that river was as new to us as Plymouth rock was to the pilgrims of New England. When I arrived in California not a barrel of flour was raised in the country, although the country was then as old as the discovery of the Pacific. It was a terra incognita. No event except the declaration of independence ever had such effect as this discovery of gold. The first celebration of this event in which he had participated was in Coloma, the spot where gold was discovered. At that meeting he (the speaker) was deputized to bear to Gen. Sutter the first recognition of his rights as the proprietor of the first gold mine. He thought this day was as much worthy of celebration as the day of the landing of the forefathers.

Gen. Sweeney, in response to the toast "Our Army and Navy," said the response to this toast had been replied to in olden times by the mouths of cannon and he was one of those who could best answer by referring to the plains of Mexico.

Gen. Johnson replying to the toast of "Veterans of California," pleaded ill health and called upon Gen. Gibson to take his place.

Gen. Gibson said the names of Sutter, Kearney, Fremont and Stockton, were names which belonged to the early history and conquest of California. He recited incidents of the conquest of San Francisco from the control of the hounds in '47. He came from Baltimore to take part in this celebration and to pay tribute to the author of the "Star-spangled Banner," whose story was reflected in the discovered California.

Wm. J. Hill sang a song of his composition entitled "Days of '49."

Judge David Mcadam responded to the toast "Woman."

A toast to the memory of John A. Sutter was drunk in silence.

The president then called upon Francis Clark the secretary to recite a poem "In Memoriam" by Henry Morford.

A song by Samuel Cupham was then sung by Hall, the pioneers joining in the chorus.

E. C. Kimble responded to the toast "Our Guests."

"The Days when we went Gold Hunting" was then sung by J. C. Mcmbie and the pioneers supplied the chorus.

"A Legend of Tuba" was answered by J. A. Sperry. He described the costume of old miners, their good nature and generosity.

The last regular toast, "Early Dramas of California," was responded to by an old actor, J. J. McCloskey.

An original recitation by Hugh McDermott followed and the song of "The Days of '49" brought the evening to a close.

There were present at the dinner F. C. Kemble, F. D. Clark, J. H. Welch, W. Canno, F. R. Anthony, J. D. Tiforth, E. W. Dowling, A. C. Ferris, J. Gault, Gen. Gibson, B. W. Jenness, C. Lydecker, J. J. McCloskey, Gen. Darr, Gen. Sweeney, J. A. Sperry, Henry Wilson, Gen. Fahns, with guests and several sons of the pioneers.

WEATHER REPORTS.

Indicate a General Decline in Thermometer.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

NEBRASKA.

Omaha, Jan. 19.—At 6 A. M. the mercury indicated 20 degrees below zero. During the middle of the day it was 10 degrees below and it is falling again this evening. It is the coldest snap known here in many years. The cold wave came from the west. It is exceedingly cold along the whole line of the Union Pacific. The effect of the storm on the railroad was not nearly so severe as anticipated. The Union Pacific is clear of snow and trains arrived and departed as usual to-day with the exception of being three hours late caused by waiting for delayed trains from Chicago. All eastern trains connected with the Union Pacific except the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul and the Wabash trains from the east, to-night are all more or less late. The Burlington & Missouri River system in Nebraska is all clear except between Hardy and Wymore on the southern division travel was entirely suspended today on the Nebraska division of the Chicago, Minneapolis, St. Paul and Omaha. The Missouri Pacific express which left here last night for St. Louis got stuck in a snow bank five miles south of Papillion and there took the Union Pacific train back to Omaha. Travel is more or less interrupted on the Missouri Pacific.

Omaha, Jan. 19.—The fall of light dry snow over the state accompanied by high winds drifted on the railway tracks and will delay trains in the central and northern portions of the state several hours and will blockade the train from the north.

KANSAS.

Larned, Ks., Jan. 19.—The worst storm within the memory of the oldest inhabitants struck this section of country about 3 o'clock yesterday. A heavy fall of sleet, hail and snow has been driving from the northwest for the last eight hours. All the range is thickly covered with ice and snow. The cold is intense. Cattle and especially sheep will suffer terribly. It is safe to predict the losses to sheep and stockmen in this region for the next 48 hours will be greater than for any corresponding length of time since the settlement of the country.

Topeka, Jan. 19.—A heavy snow storm is coming from the west. Santa Fe railway officials have advice that it is the worst storm for years. They have a large force of men at the depot ready to go west to clear the track.

UTAH.

Ogden, U. T., Jan. 19.—The cold at present ... ever known in this territory covers at present the ... part of the Pacific slope extending from here north ... to the British possessions. It is 15 degrees below zero to-night or 3 degrees lower than the coldest night heretofore known.

COLORADO.

Denver, Jan. 19.—Fair ... cold weather prevails here ... there ... registering ... degrees ... below zero. Mountain towns report the cold most intense. At Georgetown 23 degrees below zero the coldest ever known.

DAKOTA.

Yankton, Jan. 19.—A blizzard and severe cold weather has prevailed for 24 hours. 22 degrees below zero.

CANADA.

Montreal, Jan. 19.—Heavy snow delays the trains from 4 to 10 hours.

RAILWAY RUMBLINGS.

Encouraging Report from the Northern Pacific Directors.

New York, Jan. 19.—At a meeting of the Northern Pacific directors yesterday Vice President Oakes presented his report. He says work on the Bozeman tunnel had advanced ... and a temporary track was being laid over the mountains at this point pending the completion of the tunnel. The coal bunkers at New Tacoma ... tons of coal from which ... the number of persons arriving at Portland last year in excess of departures was 15,112. The estimated grain surplus for the next season from Oregon and Washington territory was from ... to 200,000 tons. There was an increasing cattle business in western Washington territory and northern Idaho. He would inaugurate a trip to Alaska. It could be made in June and the steamers would start from Portland.

Air Line from Boston to New York.

Boston, Jan. 19.—The New York and Boston Inland railroad which has obtained a charter in Massachusetts intends to build a double track of steel in an air line 25 miles shorter than by any other route at a cost of $ ... and run trains in four hours. It has $10,000,000 English capital behind it.

Westbound Trains Fail to Make Connection.

Salt Lake, Jan. 19.—The Union Pacific train from the east due at Ogden at 5 P. M. ... late and the connection was not made with the Central Pacific. The delay is attributed to the intense cold ... along the entire line from Ogden to Omaha.

Board of Indian Commissioners before Teller.

POOR PROSPECTS FOR FAST MAILS.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

Washington, Jan. 19.—The board of Indian commissioners have been in session here and have just completed their labors, though what they are all about nobody can quite understand. These commissioners are a set of amiable philanthropists who have no powers and draw no salaries. They are supposed to exercise a general supervision over the Indian department with a view of preventing its dishonesty and injustice. It needs enough of such supervision but it is not altogether certain the commissioners would know if an Indian agent or contractor were stealing for these gentlemen are wiser in their opinion than children of eight and even if the commissioners could not be hoodwinked certain gentlemen who draw no salaries cannot afford to give a great deal of their time to public service. The principal business of the board as far as superficial evidence goes was to get the secretary to recommend to congress a large appropriation for their expenses, but only the small amount of $2000 is now appropriated.

Mr. Teller expressed doubts as to whether the services of the board are worth an increased sum, the only service rendered the government by commissioners he told them was their allowing the government to be defrauded in the purchase of 12,000 head of cattle to the extent of $6 per head.

Mr. Fisk, president of the board, promptly admitted the indictment but pleaded in mitigation that no member of the board was present at the time the contract was let, only the clerk of the board and the commissioner of Indian affairs, Mr. Price. Whereat Mr. Price became very uneasy but did not participate in the debate.

Mr. Teller admitted the plea exonerated the commissioners personally, but he intimated that it did not prove anything as to the usefulness of the board. It must be very painful to Price to have remarks of this kind made about the contracts let by him or under his supervision, but he has an easy defense which consists in publishing a card admitting all the facts but presenting them as a complete refutation of the rascalities made by unscrupulous enemies of his. The morning that dispatch appeared in the Chicago Times regarding some beef and flour contracts Price published a letter in defense of himself regarding the flour contract in question. He admitted he paid for the flour ... the full amount that was being paid for it at Los Pinos, transportation included, plus expensive transportation from Salt Lake City to Ouray and manifested much indignation that wicked people denied him due credit for not hauling the flour hauled to Los Pinos and then across the country to Ouray.

Progress of the International Commission.

The international commission appointed to negotiate a revenue treaty between the United States and Mexico are making satisfactory progress in their work. It is learned a free list has been agreed upon which although it does not greatly increase the number of articles imported free into the United States from Mexico it does nevertheless remove unnecessary duties. Among the articles upon the free importation list Mexico lays particular stress on sugar not above No. 16 Dutch standard in color. This is sought not so much with a view to immediate free exportation of such sugar from Mexico into the United States as for the purpose of encouraging and developing the culture of cane and the manufacture of sugar in the former country. In the six years in which the treaty is to continue in force there is no earthly possibility in the opinion of Mexican representatives that the exportation of sugar from Mexico should reach a very considerable proportion. At the same time sugar manufacture in that country ... with the ... of agricultural implements and machinery from the United States would give free play to an important Mexican industry and be reciprocally beneficial to both countries.

The list of articles to be imported free of duty from the United States into Mexico has been considerably enlarged. Among other things there have been added to it petroleum crude and refined for illuminating purposes, machinery, agricultural implements, tools for art and houses made of iron and wood, a provision virtually agreed upon which will relieve the commerce of the United States from the transit duties hitherto imposed upon goods passing from state to state and with the republic of Mexico. The provision will probably be agreed upon to permit the transportation of commodities from the United States to Mexico and from Mexico to the United States under the terms of the treaty in ships owned by citizens of either republic within the territory of either. In other words to allow the trade between the two countries under the treaty to be carried on in ships built in the United States and bought by citizens of Mexico or built in Mexico and bought by citizens of the United States. There are other important provisions under consideration but it is believed they have not yet taken final shape.

A caucus of republican representatives will be held to-morrow at the instance of republican members of the ways and means committee. The subject of discussion is the tariff bill.

Reading the Chinese Restriction Law.

Washington, Jan. 19.—Officials at the treasury department are preparing under direction of the secretary of the treasury the transit concerning transportation across the United States from the Atlantic seaports to San Francisco of Chinese laborers from Cuba en route to China. This is being done although the secretary of the treasury considers the landing of these Chinamen at any port of the United States in violation of the provisions of the Chinese restriction bill which became a law last winter. General ... called upon Secretary Folger to-day in reference to this subject and was informed that the secretary of state had reached the conclusion that the law must be construed with reference to the treaty stipulations between this country and China ... the capital ... of the bill being ... to ... certain treaty stipulations ... and on the strength of the ... of the attorney general ... that the Chinese had a right to ... through the United States ... upon the treasury department ... articles to govern their transportation ... secretary Folger's own opinion was in conformity with the original opinion of the attorney general that the law could only be construed in one way as meaning that the Chinese could not land in this country. General Rosecrans said to lay it was at the instance of their passage on the transportation lines that the treasury department obtained the first opinion of the attorney general and issued its orders. It is understood that the ... opinion of the attorney general has been given and ... departure ... the ... which will ... the ... railways of passengers ... to obtain that traffic for the benefit of railroads. The treasury department is now engaged in getting up rules against its own judgment.

Unlawful Fencing in of Government Lands.

Washington, Jan. 19.—In response to a letter from ... asking for suggestions in the matter, Secretary Teller in a letter dated to-day, expressed the opinion that the enclosure of large tracts of public land by barbed wire fences or otherwise by herders or stock men may be enjoined as a nuisance if it becomes detrimental to the public interest to the extent of preventing the settlement of ... interrupting the avenues of commerce or interfering with mail transportation or the use of highways. The secretary recommends proper steps be taken in cases that come to the attention of the department of justice to stop this unlawful monopoly. He thinks the United States may resort to all methods of procedure to protect its own interests that would be available to private parties in like circumstances.

Decidedly Opposed.

Washington, Jan. 19.—The difference between the house and senate in regard to the appropriation in the postoffice bill for fast mail facilities will have to be settled by a conference. The committee of the house appropriated nothing for that purpose while the senate by a large majority appropriated $185,000, a sum sufficient to maintain the service for the next year similar to that of the current year. Last year the postmaster general was given $60,000 for fast mail facilities. The pool arrangement of railroads west of Chicago was such as to prevent his doing anything in that direction, though he retained the fast mail service in the east which the companies are willing to continue at a cost of $185,000. When the clause making appropriations for this service was under consideration in the house this year western members complained that the west had received no benefit from the appropriation and they voted against any appropriation whatever. The vote in both branches was so decisive that it is impossible to predict what the conference committee will do.

An Appeal in the Sugar Interests.

The following has been sent to each member of the Louisiana delegation in congress:

Dear Sir: In consequence of the statement circulated in Washington that eastern refiners have joined with Louisiana planters in asking for a higher duty on sugar we the undersigned representing the refining interests of this city and paying to the government from $6,000,000 to $ ... per annum in duties hereby emphatically declare we have entered into no such agreement and that we earnestly urge a large reduction in the duty on the article.

Holdings Misconstrued.

It is alleged the interior department's decision in the case of Phelps vs the Northern Pacific has been misconstrued. That it was therein held that the lands withdrawn by the railroads under their grants are open to settlement at any time before the filing of a map of their definite location. The report on that seems to have caused the misconception is said to have been a mere reiteration of the well known decision that such withdrawal could not include private locations made before the preliminary withdrawal.

Into the Hands of the Grand Jury.

Jersey City, Jan. 19.—Receiver Williams of the City bank has commenced suits against Garrett C. Bryce, Edward E. Shaw and John Beach for trespass, damages in each instance being fixed at $ ... 000.

District Attorney McGill has decided to call the grand jury Thursday next to consider the cases of the accused officers of the two suspended banks.

Cabinet Session.

All members of the cabinet were present at the meeting to-day. The session was short. The proposed Mexican treaty was the only question of importance considered. A contract for two mail elevators for the new government building at St. Louis was awarded to W. E. Hale & Co., Chicago, for $8,500; contract for the sheet copper on the court house at Topeka to Park, Scott & Co., Pittsburg.

Two Hundred Dollars Worth of Repentance.

SENATORIAL CONTESTS.

Nebraska.

Lincoln, Jan. 19.—Another unimportant ballot ... the ... taken making no change of any significance.

Lincoln, Jan. 19.—Fourth ballot for United States senator: Thayer 16, Millard 16, Norton 13, Manderson 8, Stickel 10, Saunders 12, Cowen 11, Brown 5, Vifquain 6, Connor 6, others scattering.

Omaha, Jan. 19.—It was expected that an election of U. S. senator would take place to-day at Lincoln and that the fight would be between Millard and Thayer, but the ballot showed no great change from yesterday and hence the situation remains as badly mixed as ever. It is not likely now that an election will be accomplished until next week. It looks now as if the contest would be narrowed down to the two contestants, Millard and Thayer, with about even chances of election. To-day's ballot was as follows: Thayer 16, Millard 16, Cowen ... Diverse Opinions on the Election of Senator Hoar.

Boston, Jan. 19.—The Journal (republican) says: The re-election of Geo. F. Hoar is a great victory for the republican party in Massachusetts. It baffles the cunningly devised schemes of Governor Butler and his democratic followers.

The Traveller (republican) says: It is an ... result of victory to a republican faction at the expense of the whole party and to the imminent peril of its future ascendancy in this state. As such it is a subject for rejoicing only among democrats.

Charges of Fraud in the Election of Senator Hoar.

Boston, Jan. 19.—A private dispatch from Washington ... states that a forgery committed ... in the election of Senator Hoar. SENTENCE OF ANARCHISTS IN FRANCE.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

FRANCE.

Paris, Jan. 19.—Princess Mathilde and Prince Louis, whom Prince Jerome has repeatedly expressed a wish to see, have not been admitted to the conciergerie. Prince Jerome is allowed to see his advocates and as most of his political friends are lawyers he can see nearly all of them.

Duc ... d'Aumale was visibly disturbed when he heard of Floquet's bill.

News of Prince Jerome's arrest caused great sensation in the household of Count de Chambord.

Paris, Jan. 19.—Some of the morning papers give further details of the alleged organization of a civil war in the west of France with the help of Catholic workmen's clubs and mentions the discovery of a legitimists conspiracy called the Catholic coalition, forming a vast association directed by Baron DeCharette. They declare 33 legions have been formed in the west and center. Several officers of the army are implicated in the conspiracy and depots of arms are collected.

The Lanterne declares the rising in LaVendee is fixed for the 21st inst.

The Figaro asserts that Prince Jerome Napoleon now regrets that he eliminated the phrase contained in the draft of his manifesto as follows: "Whoever so may be the elect of the people will be their only legitimate chief."

Princess Clotilde, wife of Prince Jerome Napoleon, has arrived here.

It is probable that there will be no decision in the case of Prince Napoleon for the next few days.

The Orleans princes are expected to resign their commissions in the army.

London, Jan. 19.—The Times Paris correspondent says the prohibition of a display of religious emblems in the government bill which the cabinet has resolved to submit is ... those persons greedy ... religious persecution. The correspondent referring to the portion of the government bill against pretenders to the throne says those against whom it is directed will be always and everywhere suspects, and this west had piece of tyranny will survive in the gay and generous nation the shameful passion of ... which may degenerate till the execration of the world.

Defying the Prefect of Police.

Paris, Jan. 19.—Bornand, Bonapartist member of ... gave notice to the prefect of police last evening that he had posted Prince Jerome Napoleon's manifesto outside his own house and challenged him to test the illegality of the action. Persons passing by the house pulled the placard down. The police decline to gratify Bornand's desire for martyrdom.

Movements of Prominent Foreigners.

Cannes, Jan. 19.—Gladstone arrived to-day. He was met at the depot by the mayor and Lord Wolverton.

Count de Paris left for Paris when he heard of the ... in the chamber of deputies in regard to pretenders to the French throne in order to consult with his relatives.

Anarchists Sentenced.

Lyons, Jan. 19.—The trial of anarchists is concluded. Emil Gautier, Bernard, Bordet of the Lyons ... journal Etendard and Prince Krapotkine were found guilty and sentenced each to five years imprisonment and to pay 2000 francs fine, two years under police supervision and to five years deprivation of civil rights. Four of the accused were acquitted and ten including the printer Vallat were sentenced to pay 50 francs fine and five years deprivation of civil rights, nine to pay 100 francs fine and to ... deprivation of civil rights and one year's imprisonment, eleven, including Ricus, ... to be deprived of civil rights ... to pay a fine of 200 francs, or 15 months imprisonment, three to be deprived of civil rights and to pay a fine of 300 francs and two years imprisonment, three to ten years police supervision ... to pay a fine of 500 francs and ... three years imprisonment, and three were sentenced to ... years imprisonment and ... a fine of 1000 francs ... The following ... to two years imprisonment ... 1000 francs fine and ... five years police supervision and ten to five years imprisonment and ... 1000 francs fine and two years ...

There was great tumult on the delivery of the sentences and the court room was closed. It is believed ... will appeal.

Trade Returns for 1882.

Paris, Jan. 19.—French trade returns for 1882 show an increase of imports amounting to 106,000,000 francs and exports amounting to 34,300,000 francs. This is considerably unfavorable as 98 ... francs of the increase in imports are under the head of manufactures and the increase in exports is divided between manufactures and raw material.

Senate.

Washington, Jan. 19.

Sewell from the military affairs committee reported adversely the bill to authorize the secretary of war to establish a home for indigent soldiers and sailors in Kansas.

Harrison from the committee on territories, reported a bill authorizing the county of Yankton, Dakota, to issue bonds. He said a majority of the committee were satisfied the desire on the part of the people of that county to have such legislation as will enable them to refund their debt and get rid of a tainted reputation. He would ask the senate to consider the bill at an early day.

Garland gave notice that three members of the committee disapproved of the bill. Hale presented Frye's credentials of re-election filed.

Bingham of Pennsylvania chairman of postoffices and post roads committee reported back the bill providing that whenever it shall become necessary to increase the speed on which mail is carried on any post route such shall be readvertised for the time required which was passed.

Hiscock endeavored to dispense with the private business for to-day, but failed to secure the necessary two-thirds vote and the house went into committee of the whole with Rich in the chair on private business. At 3 o'clock the committee rose and the house passed two private bills.

A war claim bill then gave rise to some debate and the yeas and nays were ordered on its passage pending which on motion of Robeson of New Jersey the house at 3 o'clock adjourned and a republican caucus was held immediately.

WESTERN UNION TROUBLES.

A Decision that Compels the Company to Close their Transfer Books till the 25th Inst.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

New York, Jan. 19.—The resolution of the executive committee of the Western Union telegraph company January 19th is as follows:

Whereas, The following communication has just been received by this company from its transfer agent, the Union Trust company of New York:

January 18

To the Western Union Telegraph Company—Gentlemen: I have seen a copy of an order dated Jan. 17, 1883, made by Hon. Geo. L. Ingraham, justice of the superior court of this city in the case of Wm. Williams, plaintiff, vs your company and other defendants. This order permits the reopening of the transfer books and transferring thereof of all stock of your company excepting ... of $15 ... of ... as shall now be standing in the names of parties to whom it was originally issued or shall be owned by such persons. I desire to call your attention to the position in which the terms of the order place this company as your transfer agents. It imposes upon us the determining of the identity of each certificate of stock shall be presented for transfer whether it presents in whole or in part the excepted stock and it would necessitate practically a search into the history of each certificate and each operation requiring so much care and time as would lead to great delays before the transfer of any considerable amount of stock could be effected. In some cases the number of which could not well be estimated except after actual experience it would be difficult to determine whether the stock actually represented any of the excepted stock or not. As the dividend exceeded a hundred shares a certificate for each ... shares would be made out and we could not determine ... which ... the portion of excepted stock was represented. In regard to the second clause of the paragraph—"Or shall be owned by such persons"—it would be impossible for us to know the actual ownership ... the ... transfer ... as the ... evidenced by the certificate and its ownership. In point of fact to undertake to determine this fully will involve an amount of responsibility that would properly belong in no way to our office as your transfer agent and we ... that you ... Yours very respectfully,

EDWARD KING, President.

Whereas, In the judgment of this board as well as its transfer agent it is wholly impracticable to make any general transfer of the shares of this company ... the conditions imposed by the order above referred to ... and

Whereas, The question of withdrawal of ... order is to be passed upon by the court on the 25th inst. now therefore

Resolved, That the transfer of the Western Union telegraph company be now closed and the same be reopened the morning of the 26th inst.

LIQUOR LEGISLATION OF THE PAST YEAR.

In an address recently delivered before the Missouri state bar association at St Louis Mr. Henry Hitchcock presented a review of state legislation during the past year on the liquor question. The address abounds in interesting and important facts Mr Hitchcock shows that during the year legislation intended to restrain or prohibit the sale of liquors was enacted in six states, differing very widely in social conditions, viz. Kentucky, Mississippi, South Carolina, Massachusetts Connecticut and Iowa. In Iowa it took the form of a constitutional amendment, absolutely prohibiting the manufacture and sale within the state of any intoxicating liquors whatever. One of the courts has, however, pronounced the amendment invalid because it was not submitted to the popular vote in proper form, and the question is still under appeal In Kentucky, the legislation has taken the curious form of special acts prohibiting or providing for the regulation of the sale of liquor in particular counties or districts apparently in satisfaction of the prevailing sentiment on the subject in each locality Some of these acts, too, show that in some localities the state of opinion which once called for such legislation has changed, for they repeal the prohibitory laws now in force in these localities In Mississippi things have taken a similar course The sale of liquor is prohibited in fifty different towns, and within five miles thereof One act prohibits it in all the towns of a particular county except one and in another permits the sale of malt liquors only. Another act relieves from the operation of the law which prohibited the sale of liquor within seven miles of two specified churches, "that portion of territory lying north of Strong river and east of Pearl river." In South Carolina we find a similar series of special acts prohibiting liquor dealing in certain localities, and one general one, providing for a local vote in any town, city or village, on the demand of one third of the legal voters, to decide by a majority whether there shall be 'license' or "no license," but exempting domestic wine sold by the gallon from the jurisdiction of the local majority.

In other states, as Massachusetts the existing license laws have been made more stringent. In Connecticut the question of license or no license was remitted to a majority vote at town meetings, and liquor dealers were made punishable for selling to habitual drunkards, minors or intoxicated persons, besides being made liable in civil damages for injuries committed by men made drunk on their premises. In Texas the local option law already in force was slightly amended In Ohio the so called "Pond law" endeavored to evade the constitutional prohibition of licenses by imposing a heavy special tax on liquor dealers but the supreme court pronounced it unconstitutional. Another act closed on Sundays all "places" in which liquor was sold or exposed for sale on other days, but the difficulty of enforcing it have been found so great that it remains a dead letter.

No doubt it is true, as the New York Evening Post remarks, that the increasing tendency to legislate upon the liquor traffic in various parts of the union marks a well defined growth in the public mind of new ideas on the subject; though just what the result is towards which it all tends may for some time yet be obscure, and therefore a matter of dispute. But there can be no doubt that these efforts indicate an increasing public contempt and condemnation of excessive drinking which, whatever the efficacy or inefficacy of liquor laws, must result in promoting temperance. That the consumption of liquor may be greatly diminished without prohibitory or even restrictive laws is shown by the changed habits within a generation of the well to-do classes both here and in England. The same phenomenon, resulting probably from the same cause is now visible among the English working classes. In England the spread of popular education has already exerted a marked influence on the yield of the liquor taxes, which now constitute about forty per cent of the revenue, or about $155 000,000 Should this tendency to diminished consumption of intoxicating drinks continue, it would create a financial problem greater than any Mr Gladstone has had to contend with and that it is likely to continue and to grow no one doubts

A TROUBLESOME PROBLEM

What is civilization going to do with the insanity it produces? The highly diversified and complicated forms which civilized life assumes, its excitements, activities, labors and dissipations, together with its reverses and disappointments, its resulting poverty, its distresses and despair, are causes which continually augment the lists of the insane, and they are causes too which the simpler forms of life such as till recently prevailed throughout our country, could never develop We have larger numbers of people who, made up with ill balanced faculties, may be expected under pressure to break down. Given, therefore, a community of excitable, hard-pushed men and women and a constantly increasing roster of serious crimes committed under circumstances that enable the plea of insanity to be interposed and what is to be done about it? To punish a person for being ill is contrary to common sense Yet, on the other hand to allow everybody to go free whenever there is reason to think that the crime was the result of an insane caprice would be to open the gates wide to violence of every sort. In a majority of these cases it is impossible, in the present state of medical science, to draw the line where moral responsibility ceases. Nor is it likely that such a line can ever be drawn with certainty since a delusion may well enough be occasioned in the mind of any man by a disordered circulation of blood in the brain, or by some other circumstance beyond all power of detection For protection, therefore, society would seem to be compelled to take the dilemma by the horns saying that every criminal is dangerously insane, and so needs restraint or else that he is morally responsible and deserves punishment Nor is there any good reason for piling up "expert' testimony pro and con There might just as well be a limit of two experts to each side. Two or three are as good as forty, and even [illegible] for one intelligible statement may be had from a limited number, but from any larger number [illegible]

AN IMPERTINENT CRITICISM

"Oregon colleges' have been much sneered at by thoughtless people, and in an eastern educational journal we find a letter from this city which descends to downright impertinent criticism. It is asserted that if "all the so-called colleges and universities in the state were to unite their resources and faculties they would not form a college worthy of the name" This is not true No one pretends that any of the Oregon colleges can compare in general excellence with the old and rich institutions of the east It would be unreasonable to expect them to, but they are all respectable in their way and at any of them a boy or girl may acquire a good knowledge of the sciences and of classical studies—in short may become a thorough scholar There are scores of Oregon graduates whose scholarship will compare favorably with that of graduates of the eastern schools The state university at Eugene City is already equal to many of the western universities The Willamette university at Salem the state agricultural college at Corvallis, the Pacific university at Forest Grove Christian college at Monmouth, the Ashland college in Southern Oregon, the Blue Mountain university at La Grande, the Philomath college, and several other schools of lesser note are all good institutions and capable of giving thorough training to any ambitious student

YESTERDAY MORNING'S FIRE

Portland narrowly escaped a great disaster yesterday morning The conditions could not have been more favorable for a great conflagration The early hour, the coincidence of two fires in different districts, the high wind the frozen mains and fire plugs and the inexperience of the new department were all circumstances favorable for serious consequences Both fires carried burning brands high into the air and they were distributed about by the wind in a way which it seemed would spread conflagration far and wide Indeed it seems wonderful that a great disaster was averted But the firemen were promptly at their posts of duty, with ready intelligence they overcame the obstacles presented by the frozen pipes admirable discipline supplied the place of experience, the high wind died away to a breeze and the floating brands fell harmlessly and died out If any single one of half a dozen natural consequences had occurred the northern end of Portland would be in ashes to day And it should not be overlooked that a piece of honest builders' work had much to do in preventing the spread of the flames The store of Corbitt & Macleay occupied a space fifty feet wide through from Front to First streets and was separated from the establishments of Knapp, Burrell & Co. on one side and Fleischner Mayer & Co on the other by unbroken brick walls. Although the flames assaulted these walls fiercely they stood solid and are now after this trial as good as when they were laid Poorly built walls would have melted like wax before the terrible heat

Yesterday morning's work demonstrated that the new fire department is a highly efficient organization, but it also demonstrated the poverty of our water resource in the event of certain emergencies of weather. Fires are always more expensive than precautions against them and it is a duty to make use of every possible protective means By use of the power of the hydraulic elevator works recently set up in the northern end of town it is possible to have an unfailing water supply of greater head than can be afforded by any fire engine in the city at every street corner in the business quarter The cost would be comparatively light and saving in insurance rates would fully compensate for it

The loss is the last feature of interest in this fire Insurance companies will almost fully reimburse Corbitt & Macleay and the loss on the building, which belongs to Capt J C Ainsworth and was not insured, will fall below ten thousand dollars Loss of the books and statistical records of the board of trade which were kept in Corbitt & Macleay's business office, will perhaps be the only permanent misfortune, so far as Portland is concerned, of this very notable fire and most of this matter can be restored from the files of The Oregonian

THE TIN-PLATE TAX

There is an industry here which is very much interested in tin plate It wants tin plate to be as cheap as possible so that something may be made out of the canning business Therefore the proposition to double the duty on this article is not a pleasing one Portland's board of trade and Astoria's chamber of commerce have protested Similar protests have been addressed to congress from other quarters Many newspapers have joined in the effort to prevent the increase of the duty It seems that the ways and means committee have been induced to advance the rate by a statement from Pittsburg to the effect that if congress will sufficiently protect the tin plate industry "it will provide a livelihood for a large number of people But why should our industry here be taxed to create an industry at Pittsburg? Is this fair? The Chicago Times states the case for us when it says "If it will not pay to make tin plates without protection it is because men can do better at something else, and for no other reason that it is possible to assign It is much the better way to let men do the things at which they can make a living without taxing their neighbors To take them from doing those things and set them at things at which they cannot earn a living without the help of taxes paid by their neighbors is the same thing essentially as taking them from useful employments and setting them at carrying buckets of water from Lake Michigan to Lake Superior A far greater industry will be taxed by the increase of the duty on tin plate than can possibly be created by it.

Complaint is made in some quarters that the appropriation for the locks at the Cascades, asked by Representative George in his new bill, is not large enough It is understood, however, to be the amount recommended by the chief of engineers, who is of opinion that $50 000 added to the $250,000 appropriated at the last session, much of which is yet unexpended, will suffice for the work till the next congress shall take action Again it is regarded as doubtful whether any river and harbor bill will be passed this session, and owing to the objections made, it is thought prudent to keep the amounts asked for within the limits proposed by the chief of engineers It would be economy however on the part of the government, when it undertakes a work of this magnitude, to make the appropriations large enough to enable the engineers to push it through Much more than time is lost by the delays resulting at frequent intervals from lack of available funds If the working force at the Cascade locks could be kept steadily at the maximum strength at which it could be worked with profit, it would be economy in the long run

Gen John B Gordon, of Georgia comes home from Europe proud of his country He said to a reporter It is enough to make an American proud to ride through the streets of London with its civilization of 2000 years and see American implements, American sewing machines, American tools and American goods displayed on every hand and know that American watches are being sold in the stores and American fields are feeding the English people, and American factories beginning to clothe them It is strange too how being in England wipes out all sectional pride that the southern man and the western man or northern man may have

It looks as if The Oregon Short Line would find an available route down Snake river from Farewell Bend to Lewiston There are difficulties of course, but it can hardly be as expensive to build through the Snake river gorge as it was to build the road from Portland to The Dalles And it may be less difficult than by the route that could be had over the Blue mountains

A Cleveland reporter testifies that he heard Garfield tell some politicians in a sleeping car during the 1880 campaign that if the party lost Indiana he intended to take the stump in New York The candidate discovering that the reporter had overheard the remark, asked him not to make it public as it would be a great admission of weakness on the part of the republicans

The man who went skating yesterday had to pay $5 for a pair of nickel plated runners The same brand and make of American skates sell in Europe for $2 50 per pair The question is if an American manufacturer can afford to sell skates in Europe for $2 50 why can't he sell them in America at the same price

In his speech against Pendleton's civil service bill Senator Voorhees stated the real ground of party opposition to the reform [illegible]

[illegible] appropriation for fast mail service [illegible] Congress [illegible] for a few thousand dollars [illegible] Pacific coast mails a day in transit for a whole year

Vice-President Oakes, if the telegraph reports him correctly, underestimates the Oregon and Washington wheat surplus It will certainly be 350 000 tons next year

It is quite cold east of the Cascades, but there is little snow except in a few localities, and loss of stock is likely to be trifling

John Kelly says that he "has no such intention He will probably retire from active politics when he dies and not sooner"

The 'days of '49' dinner in New York was purely a California affair Oregon was not mentioned

David Davis is not inappropriately called a senatorial curiosity in the dispatches

SATURDAY MORNING, JAN. 20, 1883.

LIQUOR LEGISLATION OF THE PAST YEAR.

In an address [illegible] Missouri state bar association at St. [illegible] Mr. Henry Hitchcock [illegible] state legislation during the past [illegible] liquor question. The address [illegible] interesting and important [illegible] Mr. Hitchcock shows that during the year [illegible] ed to restrain or prohibit the sale of [illegible] was enacted in six states [illegible] in social conditions: [illegible] Kentucky, Mississippi, South Carolina, Massachusetts, Connecticut and Iowa. In Iowa [illegible] of a constitutional amendment [illegible] prohibiting the manufacture and sale within the state of any intoxicating liquors whatever. One of the courts has, however, [illegible] the amendment [illegible] was not submitted to the popular vote in proper form, and the question is still on [illegible]. In Kentucky the legislature has [illegible] ous form of special acts prohibiting or providing for the regulation of the sale of liquor in particular counties or districts [illegible] in satisfaction of the prevailing sentiment on the subject in each locality. Some of these acts, too, show that in some localities the state of opinion which once called for such legislation has changed, for they repeal the prohibitory laws now in force in those localities. In Mississippi things have taken a similar course. The sale of liquor is prohibited in fifty different towns, and within five miles thereof. One act prohibits it in all the towns of a particular county except one, and in another permits the sale of malt liquors only. Another act relieves from the operation of the law which prohibited the sale of liquor within seven miles of two specified churches, "that portion of territory lying north of Strong river and east of Pearl river." In South Carolina we find a similar series of special acts prohibiting liquor dealing in certain localities, and one general one, providing for a local vote in any town, city or village, on the demand of one-third of the legal voters, to decide by a majority whether there shall be "license" or "no license," but exempting domestic wine sold by the gallon from the jurisdiction of the local majority.

In other states, as Massachusetts, the existing license laws have been made more stringent. In Connecticut the question of license or no license was remitted to a majority vote at town meetings, and liquor dealers were made punishable for selling to habitual drunkards, minors or intoxicated persons, besides being made liable in civil damages for injuries committed by men made drunk on their premises. In Texas the local option law already in force was slightly amended. In Ohio the so-called "Pond law" endeavored to evade the constitutional prohibition of licenses by imposing a heavy special tax on liquor dealers, but the supreme court pronounced it unconstitutional. Another act closed on Sundays all "places" in which liquor was sold or exposed for sale on other days, but the difficulty of enforcing it have been found so great that it remains a dead letter.

No doubt it is true, as the New York Evening Post remarks, that the increasing tendency to legislate upon the liquor traffic in various parts of the union marks a well-defined growth in the public mind of new ideas on the subject, though just what the result is towards which it all tends may for some time yet be obscure, and therefore a matter of dispute. But there can be no doubt that these efforts indicate an increasing public contempt and condemnation of excessive drinking, which, whatever the efficacy or inefficacy of liquor laws, must result in promoting temperance. That the consumption of liquor may be greatly diminished without prohibitory or even restrictive laws is shown by the changed habits within a generation of the well-to-do classes both here and in England. The same phenomenon, resulting probably from the same cause, is now visible among the English working classes. In England the spread of popular education has already exerted a marked influence on the yield of the liquor taxes, which now constitute about forty per cent. of the revenue, or about $153,000,000. Should this tendency to diminished consumption of intoxicating drinks continue, it would create a financial problem greater than any Mr. Gladstone has had to contend with; and that it is likely to continue and to grow no one doubts.

A TROUBLESOME PROBLEM.

What is civilization going to do with the insanity it produces? The highly diversified and complicated forms which civilized life assumes, its excitements, activities, labors and dissipations, together with its reverses and disappointments, its resulting poverty, its distresses and despair, are causes which continually augment the lists of the insane; and they are causes too which the simpler forms of life, such as till recently prevailed throughout our country, could never develop. We have larger numbers of people who, made up with ill-balanced faculties, may be expected under pressure to break down. Given, therefore, a community of excitable, hard-pushed men and women, and a constantly increasing roster of serious crimes committed under circumstances that enable the plea of insanity to be interposed, and what is to be done about it? To punish a person for being ill is contrary to common sense. Yet, on the other hand, to allow everybody to go free whenever there is reason to think that the crime was the result of an insane caprice would be to open the gates wide to violence of every sort. In a majority of these cases it is impossible, in the present state of medical science, to draw the line where moral responsibility ceases. Nor is it likely that such a line can ever be drawn with certainty, since a delusion may well enough be occasioned in the mind of any man by a disordered circulation of blood in the brain, or by some other circumstance beyond all power of detection. For protection, therefore, society would seem to be compelled to take the dilemma by the horns, saying that every criminal is dangerously insane, and so needs restraint, or else that he is morally responsible and deserves punishment. Nor is there any good reason for piling up "expert" testimony pro and con. There might just as well be a limit of two experts to each side. Two or three are as good as forty, and even better; for one intelligible statement may be had from a limited number, but from any larger number it is hopeless.

AN IMPERTINENT CRITICISM.

"Oregon colleges" have been much sneered at by thoughtless people, and in an eastern educational journal we find a letter from this city which descends to downright impertinent criticism. It is asserted that if "all the so-called colleges and universities in the state were to unite their resources and faculties, they would not form a college worthy of the name." This is not true. No one pretends that any of the Oregon colleges can compare in general excellence with the old and rich institutions of the east. It would be unreasonable to expect them to; but they are all respectable in their way, and at any of them a boy or girl may acquire a good knowledge of the sciences and of classical studies—in short, may become a thorough scholar. There are scores of Oregon graduates who [illegible] will compare favorably with those of the eastern schools. The state university at Eugene City is already equal to many of the western universities. The Willamette university at Salem, the state agricultural college at Corvallis, the Pacific university at Forest Grove, Christian college at Monmouth, the Ashland college in Southern Oregon, the Blue Mountain university at La Grande, the Philomath college, and several other schools of lesser note are all good institutions and capable of giving thorough training to any ambitious student.

YESTERDAY MORNING'S FIRE.

Portland narrowly escaped a great disaster [illegible] morning. The conditions [illegible] been more favorable for a great conflagration. [illegible] of Corbitt & Macleay [illegible] feet wide through from Front to First street, and was separated from the [illegible] Knapp, Burrell & Co. on one side and [illegible] Mayer & Co. on the other by [illegible] brick walls. Although the flames assaulted these walls fiercely they stood solid and are now, after this trial, as sound as when they were built. Poorly built walls would have melted like wax before the terrible heat.

Yesterday morning's work demonstrated that the new fire department is a highly efficient organization; but it also demonstrated the poverty of our water supply in the event of certain emergencies of weather. This is always more expensive than precaution against them, and it is a duty to make use of every possible protective means. By use of the power of the hydraulic elevator works recently set up in the northern end of town it is possible to have an unfailing water supply of greater head than can be afforded by any fire engine in the city at every street corner in the business quarter. The cost would be comparatively light and saving in insurance rates would fully compensate for it.

The loss is the last feature of interest in this fire. Insurance companies will almost fully reimburse Corbitt & Macleay, and the loss on the building, which belongs to Capt. J. C. Ainsworth and was not insured, will fall below ten thousand dollars. Loss of the books and statistical records of the board of trade, which were kept in Corbitt & Macleay's business office, will perhaps be the only permanent misfortune, so far as Portland is concerned, of this very notable fire, and most of this matter can be restored from the files of THE OREGONIAN.

THE TIN-PLATE TAX.

There is an industry here which is very much interested in tin plate. It wants tin plate to be as cheap as possible, so that something may be made out of the canning business. Therefore the proposition to double the duty on this article is not a pleasing one. Portland's board of trade and Astoria's chamber of commerce have protested. Similar protests have been addressed to congress from other quarters. Many newspapers have joined in the effort to prevent the increase of the duty. It seems that the ways and means committee have been induced to advance the rate by a statement from Pittsburg, to the effect that if congress will sufficiently protect the tin-plate industry "it will provide a livelihood for a large number of people." But why should our industry here be taxed to create an industry at Pittsburg? Is this fair? The Chicago Times states the case for us when it says: "If it will not pay to make tin-plates without protection, it is because men can do better at something else, and for no other reason that it is possible to assign. It is much the better way to let men do the things at which they can make a living without taxing their neighbors. To take them from doing those things and set them at things at which they cannot earn a living without the help of taxes paid by their neighbors is the same thing essentially as taxing them from useful employments and setting them at carrying buckets of water from Lake Michigan to Lake Superior." A far greater industry will be taxed by the increase of the duty on tin-plate than can possibly be created by it.

Complaint is made in some quarters that the appropriation for the locks at the Cascades, asked by Representative George in his new bill, is not large enough. It is understood, however, to be the amount recommended by the chief of engineers, who is of opinion that $50,000 added to the $250,000 appropriated at the last session, much of which is yet unexpended, will suffice for the work till the next congress shall take action. Again, it is regarded as doubtful whether any river and harbor bill will be passed this session; and owing to the objections made, it is thought prudent to keep the amounts asked for within the limits proposed by the chief of engineers. It would be economy, however, on the part of the government, when it undertakes a work of this magnitude, to make the appropriations large enough to enable the engineers to push it through. Much more than time is lost by the delays resulting at frequent intervals from lack of available funds. If the working force at the Cascade locks could be kept steadily at the maximum strength at which it could be worked with profit, it would be economy in the long run.

Gen. John B. Gordon, of Georgia, comes home from Europe proud of his country. He said to a reporter: It is enough to make an American proud to ride through the streets of London with its civilization of 2000 years and see American implements, American sewing machines, American tools and American goods displayed on every hand and know that American watches are being sold in the stores, and American fields are feeding the English people, and American factories beginning to clothe them. It is strange, too, how being in England wipes out all sectional pride that the southern man and the western man or northern man may have.

It looks as if the Oregon Short Line would find an available route down Snake river from Farewell Bend to Lewiston. There are difficulties, of course, but it can hardly be so expensive to build through the Snake river gorge as it was to build the road from Portland to The Dalles. And it may be less difficult than by the route that could be had over the Blue mountains.

A Cleveland reporter testifies that he heard Garfield tell some politicians in a sleeping car, during the 1880 campaign that if the party lost Indiana he intended to take the stump in New York. The candidate, discovering that the reporter had overheard the remark, asked him not to make it public as it would be a great admission of weakness on the part of the republicans.

The man who went skating yesterday had to pay $5 for a pair of nickel-plated runners. The same brand and make of American skates sell in Europe for $2.50 per pair. The question is, if an American manufacturer can afford to sell skates in Europe for $2.50, why can't he sell them in America at the same price?

[MON]DAY MORNING, JAN. [illegible], 1883.

NEW YEAR'S EDITION.

[illegible] of this invaluable paper can be had at [illegible] business office. Mailed to any [illegible] for the price, 10 cents per copy. It [illegible] facts and figures that are worth ten [illegible] price as an immigration document.

CITY.

[illegible] the German [illegible] the head [illegible] the business [illegible] of the community [illegible] was appointed [illegible] bank [illegible] Masonic [illegible] successfully [illegible] as long as Dr. [illegible] went well, although some of the [illegible] naturally be expected [illegible] been enterprising and energetic [illegible] available to the sense of [illegible] managed the matter to expand [illegible] and one towards which would have [illegible] the entire property would have been [illegible] it was only by the exertions of [illegible] the part of some of the members [illegible] consummation of affairs was reached, as at [illegible] they came very near getting into squirrel [illegible] will merit as one of the [illegible] more in the colony than they were able to [illegible] about causing [illegible].

[illegible]'s INVENTION.—Lawyers are constantly [illegible] borrowing from one another books of [illegible] and as it appears to be one of the frailties [illegible] nature to forget to return borrowed books, [illegible] are often put to much trouble and annoyance [illegible] this practice. Some keep a record of all [illegible] loaned, for the purpose of preventing them [illegible] being left entirely desolate; others trust to [illegible] law of reprisal to attain that end. One [illegible] the best things we have seen in this line is the invention of Ed. Bingham, and consists of a number of [illegible] blocks corresponding in shape and size with [illegible] of law books. On the back of each is [illegible] narrow pad of paper. When a friend borrows one of his books he writes the title and number [illegible] on this pad and has the borrower sign it, [illegible] which is then put in the place of the book on the [illegible] and is at once a record of the whereabouts of [illegible] and it represents and a receipt for it. It [illegible] appear to the non-legal observer that this [illegible] gives perfect security against loss, but, alas, [illegible] unveiling what counter claims, injunctions, [illegible] may be thrown in the way of the legal borrower.

[illegible] DEATH IN BED.—Mrs. Lilah Easley, aged [illegible], wife of M. A. Easley, who resides on Morrison street, between Seventh and East Park streets, [illegible] suddenly yesterday, shortly after noon. She [illegible] recently undergone a severe surgical operation [illegible] was thought to be recovering from its effects. [illegible] was with her at the time of her demise, but [illegible] which she had been visited by her husband [illegible] several of her friends, and was found asleep. [illegible] was not disturbed, and at one o'clock, when the [illegible] entered the room she found her dead. The [illegible] of her death could not be ascertained without [illegible] post-mortem examination, and Coroner Cooke was [illegible]. The post-mortem and inquest was held [illegible] at the house, and resulted in a verdict [illegible] from the effects of the surgical operation, [illegible] with the too free use of morphia and a lack [illegible] and attention. The deceased was a native of [illegible] and leaves two young children.

[illegible] FOR COMPLAINT.—Complaints have been [illegible] at this office several times in regard to the [illegible] in which pupils attending the Central [illegible] are treated. It is charged that children who [illegible] too early are kept out in the rain or cold till [illegible] school to begin. Superintendent Crawford [illegible] in regard to this matter that the gates are [illegible] for the admission of the children at 8:30. [illegible] usually come earlier before that hour and are [illegible] to wait, but it is asserted that if the gates [illegible] opened at 8 some would arrive before that [illegible] there is no necessity for the children [illegible] there till just before 9, there does not seem to [illegible] reason in their arriving before 8:30. Allowing they have no clock at home they should be [illegible] their coming so as not to arrive before [illegible] Parents should not allow their children to [illegible] early and then feel aggrieved that they are [illegible] to wait for the opening of the gates.

[illegible] TO WAIT.—A large mercantile establishment in this city has a book keeper who is a [illegible] few words. The head of the establishment [illegible] the east same time a man leaving the book [illegible] in charge. A few days since a man called at [illegible] and inquired if the proprietor was in, [illegible] keeper said he was not. The man called [illegible] the next day and for several succeeding days [illegible] receiving the same answer. At length one [illegible] asked if he could sit down and wait for the [illegible] of the proprietor. The book keeper nodded [illegible] and the man waited till he was tired and [illegible] when the man he sought would be in. [illegible] the first of March," was the reply. An explosion followed and a disgusted man left that [illegible] the last time.

[illegible] ROAD SUPERVISORS.—The commissioners [illegible] Multnomah county have been engaged for several [illegible] in fixing the boundaries of road districts, [illegible] which were demanded by the public, [illegible] and have nearly finished their labors. Road [illegible] Nos. 1 and 2 have been divided. A part of [illegible] No. 7, and a part of No. 2 is No. 10. No. [illegible] divided also a part of it put in to form a [illegible] These changes make ten road districts in [illegible] eight, as heretofore. The following were [illegible] supervisors: District No. 1, J. C. Mason; [illegible]; No. 3, Samuel Scott; No. 4, Geo. M. [illegible]; No. 5, [illegible] Ramsey; No. 6, C. P. Lent; No. [illegible]; No. 8, Frederick Benfield; No. 9, [illegible]; No. 10, W. P. Jones.

[illegible] MONUMENT FUND.—A very handsome [illegible] certificate for subscriptions to the [illegible] monument fund has just been issued. The [illegible] in the center is a view of Dr. Whitman's [illegible] Walla Walla, now known as Whitman station [illegible] the old emigrant road and a camp of [illegible] in the distance. On the left is a view of [illegible] where is buried the remains of the [illegible] and on the right a representation [illegible] monument to be erected there. The venerable [illegible] Gray, of Astoria, long a companion of Dr. [illegible], is soliciting subscriptions to the monument [illegible] and to all who subscribe, W. S. Ladd, [illegible] will issue one of these certificates as a [illegible].

[illegible] PARK.—The Park railway company filed [illegible] incorporation in the office of the county [illegible] yesterday, David E. Hadd, Joseph Buchtel and [illegible] being the incorporators. The object [illegible] company is to build, own and operate a line [illegible] from the junction of L and Water streets, [illegible] by way of Water street south to [illegible] to E street, [illegible] E to [illegible] street, and by [illegible] practicable route to the City View park, and [illegible] other lines of railway in the city of East [illegible] as the company may desire, and the city [illegible] right of way, etc. The principal place of [illegible] is Portland; duration, perpetual; capital [illegible] divided into 1500 shares of $100 each.

[illegible] SURPRISE PARTY.—Coroner Cooke was [illegible] from his office last night upon business [illegible] he found his apartments taken [illegible] of by a merry crowd of friends, both ladies and gentlemen, who had prepared a pleasant [illegible] to enliven the dull monotony of his bachelor [illegible]. For a few moments the coroner's ready [illegible] him, but in a short time he was the gayest [illegible] and was heard to remark that he felt [illegible] as young as he used to be. The ladies had [illegible] along some substantial refreshments and [illegible] of the evening was passed pleasantly.

[illegible] TO PORTLAND.—The business headquarters [illegible] Lake Superior & Puget Sound Land Company [illegible] been transferred from New Tacoma to Portland, [illegible] where they have been placed under the management of Paul Schulze, of the Northern Pacific [illegible] department. The Lake Superior & Puget [illegible] Land Company owns a large tract of land in [illegible] sound region, and it could not have selected [illegible] person better qualified than Mr. Schulze to [illegible] charge of the business on this coast.

[illegible] THE LETTER CARRIERS.—Owing to the large [illegible] of mail to be distributed in this city the [illegible] of a letter carrier is not one of flowery ease. [illegible] carrying large satchels of letters and papers up [illegible] down stairs and to houses far back from the [illegible] and running the gauntlet of vicious dogs, [illegible] the lot of the [illegible]. People would materially [illegible] the labors of the useful and overworked [illegible] by putting up boxes at convenient places for [illegible] their mail.

[illegible] BY ICE.—The steamer Vancouver attempted to make her usual trip to Vancouver, yesterday, but was obliged to put back, owing to the [illegible] of ice running in the Columbia. She will [illegible] at 9 o'clock this morning to make another [illegible]. The Gov. [illegible], on her last trip down the [illegible], was severely cut and bruised by ice, and [illegible] at Smith's mill undergoing repairs.

[illegible] LIST.—The following is a list of letters remaining uncalled for in Wells, Fargo & Co.'s express [illegible] for the week ending yesterday: [illegible] Dood, P. H. Dawson, J. C. Foster, [illegible] John Langraff, Minnesota House, Miss [illegible] [illegible] S. Rosenblatt (2), Fred. Rubin, [illegible] Singleton, Mr. Hut h, Mrs. Emma Smith, [illegible] Wall.

[illegible] TO PORTLAND.—The advance agent of [illegible]'s circus combination has contracted [illegible] arrangements with the Northern Pacific [illegible] to exhibit during next summer [illegible] throughout the whole line of the road [illegible] Portland. Both Barnum and the [illegible] calculate upon an early [illegible].

ACCIDENT TO MACHINERY.—[illegible] machinery in The Chinese [illegible] morning caused [illegible] several parts [illegible] but accidents [illegible] in spite of all precautions.

Co., and was [illegible] that the [illegible] weather is warm [illegible] Jan. 19, 1862, at Walla Walla the thermometer was [illegible] below zero. An old gentleman who was at the upper cascades during the same cold spell [illegible] that it lasted sixty days and that the last [illegible] the river was free and open from steamboats [illegible] was crossed [illegible] by Indians. The rapids were hidden under a complete ridge of ice.

BRIEF MENTION.

Good skating.

The C[illegible] arrived at [illegible] last night.

The City [illegible] sailed [illegible] yesterday.

The county court jury list will probably be completed to-day.

Ah Wan was fined $10 yesterday for traveling on the sidewalk with his baskets and pole.

The grand jury examined witnesses in several criminal cases yesterday, but returned no indictments.

It was the hose cart of No. Three, and not of No. Two, that ran into the Washington street car the other day.

Druggists of this city contemplate forming a society to promote better acquaintance and for mutual improvement.

The cistern at the corner of First and Washington overflowed yesterday and rendered that corner a pool of icy water.

A dead Chinaman was brought to Coroner Cooke's office about midnight, but an investigation showed he had died a natural death.

The next lecture in the Pacific University course at Forest Grove will be delivered Tuesday evening next by Rev. Dr. Marvin of this city.

A coat was stolen from one of Kelly & Hughes' hacks standing in front of the Esmond, last night, and the thief has not yet been captured.

Two suits have been begun in the state circuit court by James Floyd against Joseph Taylor, and one by C. J. Nelson against Jacob Gerdes.

Geo. Mitchell donated $10 to Multnomah county yesterday for the privilege of assaulting and battering one Sam Wynn. The presentation was made via Justice Bushwiller.

One of the horses of hack No. 31, which had a load of passengers from the steamer, slipped and fell on the corner of First and Stark streets last night, but no damage was done to either horse or vehicle.

FIRE AT SPOKANE FALLS.

Several Buildings Destroyed—Heavy Losses—List of Losses and Insurance.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

SPOKANE FALLS, Jan. 19.—At about half-past eleven o'clock last night a fire broke out in a defective flue in F. R. Moore & Co.'s store, and before it could be subdued five buildings were burned to ashes. In order to check the fire two more buildings were torn down by the citizens. The fire raged until two o'clock this morning. There was no wind to spread it and the ground and the roofs of surrounding buildings were covered with snow, else the whole town would have been burned to the ground. The losses are as follows: F. R. Moore & Co., $40,000, insured for $30,000, company unknown; R. W. Forest, $8000, insured for $1800 in the Commercial Insurance company; C. W. Carson, restaurant, $800, no insurance; L. B. Hyde, restaurant building, $1600, insured for [illegible] in the fire insurance of London, and $325 in the Metropolis of Paris; F. R. Moore and H. L. Cutler, furniture, loss unknown, insured for $15,[illegible] in Swiss and Helvetia, and $1025 in the London and Provincial; A. H. Porter, druggist, loss $3000; insured for $2000; J. E. Gandy, postoffice and drug store, loss $2400; insured for $500 in the London and Liverpool and Globe, and for $500 in the California insurance company.

L. W. Rima, the jeweler, whose building was torn down, lost $1500; insured to nearly the amount in Fireman's Fund. H. French, candy store, whose store was also pulled down, lost $2800; insured for eight hundred in the Hartford. Incidental losses to the surrounding property-owners were $500.

All the buildings were burned completely down except F. R. Moore & Co.'s fire proof warehouse, which covered several tons of giant powder. Throughout the conflagration the citizens worked nobly in the absence of a fire company. A great deal was lost by the thievery of Chinamen and Indians.

WALLA WALLA.

Driving Park—Cold Weather—Man Frozen to Death.

WALLA WALLA, Jan. 19.—Fifty public spirited citizens here propose buying the Tom Collins driving park to be used for county agricultural fair purposes. Ten thousand dollars is the price required. It was half subscribed for in a short time.

The weather continues very cold; thermometer stood 12 below zero last night; barometer has been higher than ever before. There are signs of change in a slightly clouded sky and falling barometer.

A man, name unknown, froze to death on the Blue Mountains a few days ago. He had a brother in Walla Walla.

FROM ASTORIA.

Bain Acquitted—Kidnappers Sentenced—Weather Cold.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

ASTORIA, Jan. 19.—The circuit court was occupied all day with the trial of John Bain for the murder of L. Alexander. Bowlby and Fulton for the defense made earnest and able speeches. The case went to the jury at 4 P. M. Jury returned at 7 P. M. a verdict of not guilty.

Burmister and McCarthy, kidnappers, were sentenced to three years each.

Weather 20 degrees above zero and calm during this afternoon.

SKATING CARNIVAL.

The skating carnival at the pavilion this evening promises to be a very brilliant and pleasant affair. The champion bicyclist, Mr. Merrill, will give an exhibition of his skill. Music will be furnished by the East Portland band. The room will be warmed and rendered comfortable. The prizes to be distributed can be seen at Ackerman's.

DEDICATION OF ROAD.—S. B. White and Byron P. Cardwell and wife filed for record, yesterday, in the office of the county clerk, a dedication of a road in Slavens's addition to Portland City Homestead. The road is fully described by an accompanying plat and is simply an alteration in direction of an already existing road.

CHANGE OF TEACHERS.—Miss Mercy S. Clarke, teacher in one of the grades at the Harrison street school, has resigned her position, and Mrs. O. F. Greene has been appointed to fill the vacancy and will take charge of her classes at the beginning of next term, Feb. 1st.

PERSONAL.

Sheriff Sears is suffering from a severe attack of sore throat.

Gen. H. A. Morrow and Capt. William H. Boyle, of Vancouver barracks, are in the city.

REDUCED TO ASHES.

Corbitt & Macleay's Wholesale House Destroyed.

AN OLD FRAME HOUSE BURNED.

Two Simultaneous Fires Which Tax to the Utmost the New Fire Department.

LOSS NEARLY A QUARTER MILLION.

[illegible]

[illegible] fire was confined to the first floor, and both entrances being barred [illegible] doors, the flames could not find vent and [illegible] forward through the second story and shot out of the [illegible] red windows. Before that the fire seemed to roll up and down the long warehouse vainly endeavoring to light its way out. It was useless to try to save Corbitt & Macleay's building, the interior of which was one red-hot seething mass. Such weather has prevailed during this fire has never been seen here before on a similar occasion. The thermometer was [illegible] scarcity of water. Efforts were then directed down to 21 degrees below freezing point; a strong north wind blew, water froze in the hose and several sections had to be taken out, and these to saving Knapp, Burrell & Co.'s store, adjoining on the south. Fleischner, Mayer & Co.'s store, adjoining on the north, is three stories high, but the roof caught fire. Chief Engineer Jordan, with a few men, mounted the roof, cut away the burning timbers and extinguished the fire with buckets passed up from below by employes of the store. At one time a sheet of flame the entire length of the building swept over Knapp, Burrell & Co.'s, and destruction seemed inevitable, when the wind shifted a little, allowing streams to be thrown on the roof and cornices. The cornices of Fleckenstein & Meyer's building and the Central block took fire, but were extinguished. Nearly every pane of glass in the latter block was broken by the heat. After three hours' good work the fire was practically under control, though it is still burning.

LOSSES AND INSURANCE.

Corbitt & Macleay's stock, of which an inventory has just been finished, is valued at $140,000. It is a total loss. They carried insurance to the amount of $120,000, distributed as follows:

Imperial, London, Northern and Queen, $40,000.
London, Liverpool & Globe, $25,000.
Commercial Union, $20,000.
Guardian, $15,000.
North British & Mercantile, $10,000.
Scottish Union & National, $10,000.

The building is owned by Capt. John C. Ainsworth, whose loss is between $20,000 and $25,000. He has no insurance.

All three floors of Fleischner, Mayer & Co.'s house were filled with smoke which discolored many fabrics. The loss may reach $5000.

The south wall of the building occupied by them, owned by R. R. Thompson, is cracked in several places, and probably $2000 will be required to repair it.

Knapp, Burrell & Co. sustained a loss of $100 damage, but they are so elated over their escape that they will make no claim upon the companies.

H. L. Hoyt and Noah Lambert lose about $200 by plate glass broken in the store occupied by Jacobs Bros. & Co. Insured in the Home Mutual.

J. W. Cook loses $100 in the same way on the building occupied by Meeds & Valentine.

Holman & Co., forwarders, whose office adjoined Corbitt & Macleay, lose their books and accounts to the amount of $800.

Frazer, Sperry & Co., wool commission merchants, who had their office with Holman & Co., lose their records for two years, including memoranda of money advanced.

BOARD OF TRADE RECORDS LOST.

All the books and papers of the board of trade, which were in the custody of Benj. [illegible] Cohn, the statistician, were burned in Corbitt & Macleay's office. Records of meetings can be supplied from the files of THE OREGONIAN, and the list of members from the last annual report; but much valuable statistics regarding the cereal product of Oregon and Washington and daily market for seasons, to which Mr. Cohn has devoted much time, cannot be replaced.

BUILT ON ARCHITECTURE.

When Capt. Ankeny erected the block in 1870, he built it to stay. The partition walls were as thick as well as in these fire walls—thick, and bricks laid in cement, in eleven-year work by masons. The fire demonstrated his wisdom and the best economy. A division burning in the center of a block and the remainder comparatively uninjured is a novelty for Portland.

COMMENCING BUSINESS AGAIN.

At half-past 8 o'clock yesterday morning, the regular office hour, Corbitt & Macleay were ready for business. They secured a temporary office in the board of trade rooms, had new blank books, stationery and the regular counting house force. A large batch of orders just to hand received attention, they buying the goods of other houses. Telegraphic orders were sent to sources of supply to duplicate of everything burned five hours before, and a temporary stock was ordered by wire from their San Francisco house. It will be shipped by the steamer leaving to-day. The large three-story building in Dolph & Thompson's block, adjoining Murphy, Grant & Co., was secured and will be occupied today. A large shipment for the house arrived by the Columbia last night. The firm announce that they are ready to fill all orders, and by the middle of next week their business will be running as smoothly as it did last Thursday. Their enterprise reminds one of that reported of Chicago firms during their fires. The safe is still in the ruins, but will be taken out to-day.

ORIGIN OF THE FIRE

Is unknown. It may be that it started from rats or mice drawing matches, or from a cigar dropped in the warehouse, or from coals in the grate dropping on the office floor. The latter is not probable, however, as only a small fire was left in the grate when the office closed at six o'clock. The fire could not have originated by spontaneous combustion.

Frame Block Burned.

When Two's engine company answered the call from box fifteen, they started out Oak street. When they reached the corner of First they saw the roof of N. Davis' tailor shop on First street, near Oak, burning. Assuming this to be the fire for which the alarm was turned in, they took water at the corner, laid hose and began playing. Scarcely had they got to work when they discovered the fire two blocks below, but as One's and Four's were coming down street, they deemed it best to stay, and directed the other companies to go on. James Kiernan, second assistant engineer, took charge of the fire. With the terrible wind it was impossible to do otherwise than let the block burn and save adjoining buildings. The whole corner up to the two-story brick occupied by Chinese on Oak street, burned to the ground. The buildings occupied by Hat Keith, S. A. Neppach and Rummelin & Hollman caught fire, but by quick movement of the [illegible] they were saved. Following is a

LIST OF LOSSES.

Mrs. H. Schulmeman and R. Buchanan, who owned the block, $3000; insured for $2000 in the State Investment. The buildings paid a monthly rental of $300.

N. Collins, boot and shoe shop, $300; not insured.

N. Davis, tailor, $1000; insured for $[illegible] in the New Zealand. A policy of $[illegible] lapsed at noon Thursday.

J. Chauhoune, cigar dealer, $400; insured $[illegible] each in the Lion and the North British and Mercantile.

Robert Storte, saloon, $1000; insured $[illegible] in the North British.

French and Italian restaurant, $[illegible]; not insured.

Geo. Hess, umbrella maker, $400; insured $[illegible] in Hamburg-Bremen.

Slipper & Rybke, tailors, $[illegible]; insured for $[illegible] as follows: $[illegible] in South British and National, $[illegible] in the Sun, $[illegible] in the Oakland Home, $[illegible] in the Hamburg-Bremen.

The fire is supposed to have originated from a defective flue. A report was in circulation that some one had been arrested for arson in connection with this fire, but this is not true.

[illegible]

On account of the extreme cold water to supply [illegible] yesterday and had three broken [illegible]. [illegible] water could not be taken from the river, [illegible] must have been dispensed. To bridge over the emergency, Mr. [illegible], superintendent of the [illegible] [illegible]

Notes.

[illegible]

Two Minor Blazes.

The house of William Halfpenny, in Stephens' addition to East Portland, was discovered to be on fire about half past ten Thursday night. The family were absent, but fortunately returned in time to save the house from total destruction. The loss caused by the blaze will not amount to more than [illegible].

Shortly after midnight a fire broke out in Franke's [illegible] factory, at the lower end of East Park street, and the building was burned to the ground. The loss is $500, with no insurance. No alarm was sent in and very few people knew of the fire.

OLYMPIA, W. T.

Personal News—Cold Weather—Sudden Death.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

OLYMPIA, Jan. 19.—Among the passengers who arrived here on the steamer Geo. E. Starr yesterday were ex-Gov. A. C. Gibbs, Col. W. C. Church, Dr. A. W. Starmount, Gov. W. A. Newell, Capt. Dodge and Capt. E. B. Tuttle, all of whom were entertained by Major J. H. Hayden, collector of internal revenue, last evening. The first named three gentlemen are commissioners appointed to inspect the Clark's fork division of the Northern Pacific railroad from Rock Island to Thompson's river, and having completed their work they are making a tour of the Sound, proceeding to Portland this morning.

The northern blizzard was felt severely here and the ground is frozen hard. The thermometer at 7 this morning registered ten above zero, even eggs and bread being frozen. Such cold weather is unusual and will not probably last, as the wind has changed to the south to-day.

A young girl named Maggie McDonnell, who has been attending the Sisters' school here but a short time, died suddenly to-day.

NEW TACOMA.

Trial of the Challenger Cases—Cold Weather.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

NEW TACOMA, Jan. 19.—In the Challenger cases today, Conrad, first mate, was acquitted on the third indictment, charging cruel treatment of the third mate on the day of the ship's arrival at this port. On the two indictments before tried he was convicted. Bennett, second mate, convicted yesterday of cruelty, was this afternoon acquitted by direction of court on the second indictment as the men named in the indictment never left Philadelphia. Twelve more indictments remain untried, one of which charges Capt. Mountford with manslaughter. On complaint of Haines, attorney for officers of the Challenger, J. B. Bingham was held to bail in $800 to appear before Chief Justice Greene on the 3d of February to answer for contempt. He is charged with having boasted that he [illegible] jurors in the trial of Captain Mountford and secured $[illegible] for the job.

The weather is very cold, this morning at eight o'clock four degrees above.

SHALL THE SCHOOL FUNDS BE LOANED?

KINGSVILLE, Jan. 15, 1883.

To the Editor of the Oregonian:

"A Friend to Schools," under date of Jan. 8, 1883, at Corvallis, appears to be laboring under a delusion. The $180,000 of unproductive school funds must be a myth. Applications have been made from southern Oregon at different times, just prior to and since the legislature met, for small loans of $200 to $1000. The answer to each application would be:

"Dear Sir—The treasurer informs us that there are no school funds on hand to loan at this time."

Therefore there is nothing that prevents the loaning of the funds if there are any to loan.

A man named [illegible], of this city, whose right arm [illegible] fractured by a crush received during the Indian troubles at the Cascades in 1856, strained that limb while working on the Albina ferryboat a few days since, causing the bone to again separate, and disabling him from further labor for the present. He is now under treatment at the hospital and is without means to carry him through [illegible].

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST.

Western Oregon.

Rev. [illegible] of Junction City, died on the 13th inst.

The schooner Sailor Boy will be launched at South Bend, January 25.

J. West has [illegible] men at work on the Oregon [illegible] railroad line, etc.

There is a large body of as fine timber as there is anywhere in the north, on the north east fork of the upper Mary's river. It is estimated to contain at least six million feet of the very best of lumber. The trees vary from two to [illegible] feet in diameter and are nearly all perfectly sound and easily gotten at.

Eastern Oregon.

A new bridge is being built across Ochoco river at Prineville.

The end of track on the Baker City division is out [illegible] miles from Pendleton and the carpenters are now working on the [illegible] five miles ahead of the track layers.

A letter from Summerville to the Walla Walla Statesman says: When the mail carrier came in from Weston, Friday, and he passed four and a half miles this side of [illegible] springs, a man breathing his last. The night before he stopped with Dick Fisher, and the next morning resumed his journey and evidently froze to death in the Blue mountains. The man was [illegible] feet [illegible] inches high, and of sandy complexion. He claimed to have a brother in Walla Walla. He came from the east.

Washington Territory.

Treasurer [illegible] of Yakima county, turned over to his successor, J. A. [illegible], about $[illegible].

Steilacoom has the oldest wagon shop and brick building on the sound. The former was established in 1851 and the latter was built in 1858.

During the quarter ending Dec. 31, 1882, the Goldendale postoffice issued money orders to the value of $[illegible], and within the same time paid orders to the amount of $[illegible].

Arrangements are nearly perfected for making several hundred thousand brick in Yakima next summer. There is to-day not a brick to be bought in Klickitat county, though the need of them is constantly experienced.

A saw mill capable of cutting 10,000 feet per day will be erected near Sumner in the spring. The machinery is to be of [illegible] construction, and consists of a twenty-five horse power engine, a planer and a lath machine. The exact location is not yet determined.

Samuel Thompson, a bad character of Wallula Junction, has [illegible] the community at fifteen minutes' notice on the invitation of an impromptu committee who gave him the choice of either leaving or hanging. Thompson is a drunkard and has been abusing his wife and other ladies in that vicinity. Only a short time ago he was severely beaten for abusing a married woman.

Says the Walla Walla Statesman: Snow has fallen every day this week, and at the present writing has attained a depth of six or seven inches. This is something that the farmers have been wishing for to protect the fall sown grain from injury by freezing at night and thawing during the day. Should the snow continue during the cold weather, it will prove of great benefit to wheat now in the ground and enhance the chances for an abundant crop.

Montana.

During 1882 there were 530 houses erected in Butte.

Northern Pacific passenger trains will soon run to Weeksville, a distance of 469½ miles from Wallula junction.

The highest point on the Northern Pacific is at Bozeman tunnel, which is at an elevation of 5565 feet above the sea. Sherman on the Union Pacific is 8245 feet above tide water.

A short time after breakfast, while sitting in the house surrounded by his family, Joseph Harwell of Basin City deliberately drew a revolver from his pocket, placed it to his temple and fired. He was a corpse in less than a minute.

The Utah and Northern branch of the Union Pacific railroad has now nearly reached Blackfoot, Montana, [illegible] miles from Ogden, the starting point of the branch. At Blackfoot the road will connect with the Northern Pacific. Early next summer the road will offer a direct route from Denver to Portland via Montana.

The White Sulphur springs property in Meagher county has been purchased by a corporation and stocked at $[illegible]. It is the intention of the company to make extensive improvements in the way of hotel, bath rooms, etc., as soon as work can be commenced in the spring. If properly handled White Sulphur Springs in the near future will be a Saratoga of which Montana will be proud.

On the 15th inst. the new roadway to Livingstone, a distance of [illegible] miles from Billings, was turned over to the operating department, and regular train service with Pullman sleepers was extended to Livingston. Beyond that point the track is laid about [illegible] miles towards Bozeman, and passengers and freight for points beyond will be moved to the end of the track on the construction trains.

Idaho.

The citizens of Lewiston are greatly exercised over the efforts of the people north of the Clearwater and Moscow to accomplish a division of the county, and held a mass meeting against the movement. Lewiston being practically without a representative in the present Idaho legislature, Mr. Ezra Baldwin was sent to represent the wishes of Lewiston.

CITY.

[illegible] AFFAIRS.—Shortly after the death of [illegible] community at Aurora, [illegible] the head, came to the conclusion to [illegible] of the association and divide [illegible] This was a work requiring time and [illegible] prudence, sagacity and fore[illegible] [illegible] that all the members might be [illegible] and costly litigation avoided [illegible] has been the legal adviser of the [illegible] and it is in a great mea[illegible] [illegible] management that their business [illegible] quickly and satisfactorily. A [illegible] appointed who divided up the real [illegible] equitably, and then another [illegible] appointed to divide the [illegible] and a sum due from [illegible] in Missouri. This has now [illegible] completed, and yesterday the re[illegible] [illegible] was filed in the United States [illegible] made for a final decree. When [illegible] have been examined and found cor[illegible] [illegible] is granted, the Aurora Commu[illegible] [illegible] thing of the past. The history of [illegible] its inception to its successful and [illegible] up of its affairs would prove an [illegible] Financially it has not proved a [illegible] although owing to the thrift and [illegible] members, they have made some [illegible] as Dr Keil was alive to direct and [illegible] through some of the members [illegible] be expected, proved a drag [illegible] enterprising and energetic. It is [illegible] the good sense of the members [illegible] the matter, to avoid litigation, as in [illegible] one lawsuits which would have [illegible] property would have been squan[illegible] [illegible] by the exercise of rare forbear[illegible] [illegible] of some of the members that this [illegible] of affairs was reached as at [illegible] very near getting into a quarrel [illegible] as some of the members have [illegible] the colony than they were able to [illegible] dissatisfaction.

[illegible] BORROWING.—Lawyers are constantly [illegible] borrowing from one another books of [illegible] appears to be one of the frailties [illegible] is forgot to return borrowed books, [illegible] apt to much irritable and sometimes [illegible] Some keep a record of all [illegible] for the purpose of preventing them [illegible] entirely desolate others trust to [illegible] of reprisal to attain that end. One [illegible] up have seen in this line is the in[illegible] [illegible] and consists of a number of [illegible] corresponding in shape and size with [illegible] law books. On the back of each is [illegible] sheet of paper. When a friend bor[illegible] [illegible] he writes the title and name [illegible] and has the borrower sign it, [illegible] put in the place of the book on the [illegible] a record of the whereabouts of [illegible] and a receipt for it. [illegible] BED.—Mrs Lilah Easley aged 75 [illegible] R. A. Easley, who resides on Mor[illegible] between Seventh and East Park streets, [illegible] yesterday, shortly after noon. She [illegible] undergone a severe surgical operation [illegible] to be recovering from its effects. [illegible] with her at the time of her demise, but [illegible] she had been visited by her husband [illegible] her friends, and was found asleep. [illegible] at one o clock when the [illegible] the room she found her dead. The [illegible] could not be ascertained without [illegible] examination, and Coroner Cooke was [illegible] post mortem and inquest was held [illegible] the house and resulted in a verdict [illegible] the effects of the surgical operation, [illegible] the free use of morphia and a lack [illegible] The deceased was a native of [illegible] leaves two young children.

[illegible] COMPLAINT.—Complaints have been [illegible] this office several times in regard to the [illegible] in which pupils attending the Central [illegible] It is charged that children who [illegible] are kept out in the rain or cold till [illegible] to begin. Superintendent Craw ord [illegible] to this matter that the gates are [illegible] the admission of the children at 8.30 [illegible] some arrive before that hour and are [illegible] but it is asserted that if the gates [illegible] at 8, some would arrive before that [illegible] there is no necessity for the children [illegible] just before 9, there does not seem to [illegible] their arriving before 8.30. Allow [illegible] they have no clock at home they should be [illegible] their coming so as not to arrive before [illegible] should not allow their children to [illegible] and then feel aggrieved that they are [illegible] for the opening of the gates.

[illegible] TO WAIT.—A large mercantile estab[illegible] in this city has a book keeper who is a [illegible] The head of the establishment [illegible] some time since leaving the book [illegible] charge. A few days since a man called at [illegible] inquired if the proprietor was in. [illegible] said he was not. The man called [illegible] morning and for several succeeding days [illegible] the same answer. At length one [illegible] if he could sit down and wait for the [illegible] proprietor. The book keeper nodded [illegible] the man waited till he was tired and [illegible] the man he sought would be in [illegible] first of March," was the reply. An ex[illegible] followed and a disgusted man left that [illegible] limited time.

[illegible] ROAD SUPERVISORS.—The commissioners [illegible] county have been engaged for several [illegible] fixing the boundaries of road districts, [illegible] which were demanded by the public [illegible] and have nearly finished their labors. Road [illegible] 1 and 3 have been divided. A part of [illegible] 1, and a part of No 2 is No 10. No [illegible] divided and a part of it put in to form a [illegible] these make ten road districts in [illegible] eight, as heretofore. The following were [illegible] supervisors: District No 1 J C Mason [illegible] No 3, Samuel Scott No 4 Geo M [illegible] Ramsey No 6 O P Lent, No [illegible] No 8, Frederick Benfield No 9, E [illegible] No 10, W P Jones.

[illegible] MONUMENT FUND.—A very handsome [illegible] certificate for subscriptions to the [illegible] monument fund has just been issued. The [illegible] in the center is a view of Dr Whitman's [illegible] Walla Walla, now known as Whitman's sta[illegible] [illegible] the old emigrant road and a camp of [illegible] in the distance. On the left is a view of [illegible] where is buried the remains of the mar[illegible] [illegible] and on the right a representation [illegible] to be erected there. The venerable [illegible] of Astoria, long a companion of Dr [illegible] soliciting subscriptions to the monu[illegible] [illegible] to all who subscribe W H Gadd [illegible] will issue one of these certificates as a [illegible]

[illegible] RAILWAY.—The Park railway company filed [illegible] incorporation in the office of the county [illegible] yesterday, David E. Budd, Joseph Buchtel and [illegible] being the incorporators. The object [illegible] is to build, own and operate a line [illegible] from the junction of L and Water streets [illegible] by way of Water street south to L [illegible] to B street to Eleventh street and by [illegible] route to the City View park and [illegible] other lines of railway in the city of East [illegible] as the company may desire and the city [illegible] right of way for. The principal place of [illegible] in Portland, duration, perpetual capital [illegible] divided into 1000 shares of $100 each.

[illegible] SURPRISE PARTY.—Coroner Cooke was [illegible] from his office last night upon business [illegible] returned he found his apartments taken [illegible] by a merry crowd of friends, both la[illegible] gentlemen, who had prepared a pleasant [illegible] relieve the dull monotony of his bache[illegible] [illegible] For a few moments the coroner's ready [illegible] him, but in a short time he was the gay [illegible] and was heard to remark that he felt [illegible] as he used to be. The ladies had [illegible] some substantial refreshments and [illegible] of the evening was passed pleasantly.

[illegible] TO PORTLAND.—The business headquarters [illegible] Superior & Puget Sound Land Company [illegible] transferred from New Tacoma to Port[illegible] [illegible] they have been placed under the man[illegible] [illegible] Paul Schulze of the Northern Pacific [illegible] department. The Lake Superior & Puget [illegible] Land Company owns a large tract of land in [illegible] sound region, and it could not have select[illegible] [illegible] better qualified than Mr Schulze to [illegible] of the business on this coast.

[illegible] THE LETTER CARRIERS.—Owing to the large [illegible] of mail to be distributed in this city the [illegible] carrier is not one of flowery ease [illegible] large satchels of letters and papers up [illegible] stairs and to houses far back from the [illegible] and running the gauntlet of watch dogs etc [illegible] of the flesh. People would materially [illegible] the labors of the useful and overworked [illegible] by putting up boxes at convenient places for [illegible] their mail.

[illegible] BY ICE.—The steamer Vancouver at [illegible] to make her usual trip to Vancouver yes[illegible] [illegible] but was obliged to put back owing to the [illegible] of ice running in the Columbia. She will [illegible] at 9 o clock this morning to make another [illegible] The Calliope on her last trip down the [illegible] was severely cut and bruised by ice and [illegible] at Smith's mill undergoing repairs.

IT DOESN'T GET WARMER.

Yesterday's weather was a repetition of the day before, except that there was less wind and less in convenience because there was more getting used to it. About 5 A M the mercury marked eight degrees above zero, within eight points of the lowest ever known here by white inhabitant and this was by the government thermometer not by any twenty five cent second hand machine. It rose nine degrees during the day but at night settled back to the notches occupied twenty four hours before. The center of the cold wave was over this city from midnight until noon and the barometer was up to 30 73 at 8 A M, the highest ever recorded since the signal office was established. The next highest was 30 54 in December 1881. At 3 P M the glass had gone down to 30 64 and at 6 P M one hundredth lower. At Umatilla at noon the barometer was higher than here showing that the cold wave center was moving east. We'll hear from it by telegraph from Dakota about day after to morrow. The wind is still in the east and north and the barometer at Roseburg and Red Bluff continues to rise. This would indicate continued cold weather but last night's observation here showed increase in humidity and a break in the weather may be looked for Monday.

It is not tropical up the Columbia valley. Here are the thermometrical figures: Ainsworth 11 below, Riparia 18 below, Walla Walla 10 below, Dayton 11 below, Waitsburg 10 below, [illegible] Dalles 2 below, Bonneville 7 above. The middle Columbia and the river above the mouth of the Willamette, is closed. The ice is considerable ice above St Helens and river boats take the slough route. The C T Hook going down and the Columbia coming up got through yesterday afternoon and the State of California sailing at midnight was probably not delayed. The Vancouver could not get to Vancouver, but will make the attempt again this morning.

A COMPARISON

There exists no better place to gather weather reminiscences than where steamboatmen congregate. An OREGONIAN reporter struck such a crowd yesterday at the general office of the river division of the O R & N Co, and was convinced that the present weather is warm. One gentleman related that just twenty one years ago—Jan 19 1862—at Walla Walla the thermometer was 34 degrees below zero. Another gentleman who was at the upper cascades during the same cold spell said that it lasted four days and on the last day the river was frozen over from shore to shore and was crossed on ice by Indians. The rapids were hidden under a complete bridge of ice.

BRIEF MENTION

Good skating.

The Columbia arrived at 6 o clock last night.

The China steamer C. T. Hook sailed yesterday.

The county court jury list will probably be completed to-day.

Ah Wan was fined $10 yesterday for traveling on the sidewalk with his baskets and pole.

The grand jury examined witnesses in several criminal cases yesterday, but returned no indictments.

It was the hose cart of No Ones, and not of No Twos that ran into the Washington street car the other day.

Druggists of this city contemplate forming a society to promote better acquaintance and for mutual improvement.

The cistern at the corner of First and Washington overflowed yesterday and rendered that corner a pool of icy water.

A dead Chinaman was brought to Coroner Cooke's office about midnight but an investigation showed he had died a natural death.

The next lecture in the Pacific University course at Forest Grove will be delivered Tuesday evening next by Rev Dr Marvin of this city.

A coat was stolen from one of Kelly & Hughes hacks standing in front of the Esmond last night and the thief has not yet been captured.

Two suits have been begun in the state circuit court by James Floyd against Joseph Taylor and one by C J Nelson against Jacob Gerdes.

Geo Mitchell donated $10 to Multnomah county yesterday for the privilege of assaulting and battering one Sam Wynn. The presentation was made via Justice Bushwiler.

One of the horses of hack No 31 which had a load of passengers from the steamer slipped and fell on the corner of First and Stark streets last night but no damage was done to either horse or vehicle.

FIRE AT SPOKANE FALLS.

Several Buildings Destroyed Heavy Losses—List of Losses and Insurance.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

SPOKANE FALLS Jan 19.—At about half past eleven o clock last night a fire broke out in a defective flue in F R Moore & Co's store, and before it could be subdued five buildings were burned to ashes. In order to check the fire two more buildings were torn down by the citizens. The fire raged until two o clock this morning. There was no wind to spread it and the ground and the roofs of surrounding buildings were covered with snow, else the whole town would have been burned to the ground. The losses are as follows: F R Moore & Co $40 000 insured for $30,000 company unknown; R W Forest, $8000, insured for $4000 in the Commercial Insurance company; C W Carson restaurant, $800, no insurance; L B Hyde restaurant building $1000 insured for $400 in the fire insurance of London and $325 in the Metropole of Paris; F R Moore and H L Cutler furniture [illegible] unknown insured for $15 in Swiss and Helvetia and $10,5[illegible] in the London and Provincial; A H Porter, druggist, loss $3000 insured for $2000; J E Gandy postoffice and drug store loss $2400 insured for $600 in the London and Liverpool and Globe and for $500 in the California insurance company.

L W Rima the jeweler whose building was torn down lost $1500 insured to nearly the amount in Fireman's Fund. H French candy store whose store was also pulled down lost $800 insured for eight hundred in the Hartford. Incidental losses to the surrounding property owners were $500.

All the buildings were burned completely down except F R Moore & Co's fire proof warehouse which covered several tons of giant powder. Throughout the conflagration the citizens worked nobly in the absence of a fire company. A great deal was lost by the thievery of Chinamen and Indians.

WALLA WALLA.

Driving Park—Cold Weather—Man Frozen to Death.

WALLA WALLA, Jan 19.—Fifty public spirited citizens here propose buying the Tom Collins driving park to be used for county agricultural fair purposes. Ten thousand dollars is the price required. It was half subscribed for in a short time.

The weather continues very cold: thermometer stood 12 below zero last night; barometer has been higher than ever before. There are signs of change in a slightly clouded sky and falling barometer.

A man name unknown froze to death on the Blue Mountains a few days ago. He had a brother in Walla Walla.

FROM ASTORIA.

Bain Acquitted—Kidnappers Sentenced—Weather Cold.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

ASTORIA, Jan 19.—The circuit court was occupied all day with the trial of John Bain for the murder of L Alexander. Bowlby and Fulton for the defense made earnest and able speeches. The case went to the jury at 4 P M. Jury returned at [illegible] P M a verdict of not guilty.

Burmister and McCarthy kidnappers were sentenced to three years each.

Weather 20 degrees above zero and sun shining this afternoon.

SKATING CARNIVAL.

The skating carnival at the pavilion this evening promises to be a very brilliant and pleasant affair. The champion bicyclist Mr Merrill, will give an exhibition of his skill. Music will be furnished by the East Portland band. The room will be warmed and rendered comfortable. The prizes to be distributed can be seen at Ackerman's.

DEDICATION OF ROAD.—S B White and Byron P Cardwell and wife filed for record yesterday in the office of the county clerk a dedication of a road in Slaven's addition to Portland City Homestead. The road is fully described by an accompanying plat and is simply an alteration in direction of an already existing road.

CHANGE OF TEACHERS.—Miss Mercy S Clarke teacher in one of the grades at the Harrison street school has resigned her position and Mrs G F Greene has been appointed to fill the vacancy and will take charge of her classes at the beginning of next term Feb 1st.

REDUCED TO ASHES.

Corbitt & Macleay's Wholesale House Destroyed.

AN OLD FRAME RANGE BURNED.

Two Simultaneous Fires which Tax to the Utmost the New Fire Department.

LOSS NEARLY A QUARTER MILLION.

The two fires at four o clock, yesterday morning briefly reported in THE OREGONIAN were confined to their original limits. Everything in Corbitt & Macleay's extensive wholesale grocery house extending through from Front to First street, was burned. Not a dollar's worth of goods was saved. Both fronts of the building are standing and will probably not have to come down. The fire was discovered by Capt A P Ankeny who rooms in New Market block. Through one of the front windows lowered at the top for ventilation dense smoke poured into his lodgings. This awakened him and he immediately began search about the theater block to discover the fire. Not finding fire in the building he started out to First street and saw heavy dense smoke forcing its way through the second story windows of the block formerly owned by him. About the same time E Blanchet nightwatchman at Ash street dock made like discovery but was unable to exactly locate the fire. Policeman Beach turned in an alarm from box 15 which sounded the engine house gongs but did not tap the big bell. Other alarms were sent in from boxes 14 and 16. There was prompt response by all the companies.

FIGHTING THE FIRE

Ones company stationed themselves at First and Ash and Threes and Fours at the big cistern in front of the telegraph office. Twos company were busy at another fire described below. A team was sent to Fours engine house and brought down Threes reserve engine which was placed in charge of Alex Mehwalt at Ash street, taking suction in the river. The flames did not burst out until half past four. Fire was confined to the first story and both entrances being barred by iron doors the flames could not find vent until they had burned through the second story and shot out of the unbarred windows. Before that the fire seemed to roll up and down the long warehouse vainly endeavoring to fight its way out. It was useless to try to save Corbitt & Macleay's building the interior of which was one red hot seething mass. Such weather as prevailed during this fire has never been just here before on a similar occasion. The thermometer was was a scarcity of water. Efforts were then directed down to 14 degrees below freezing point a strong north wind blew, water froze in the hose and several sections had to be taken out and there to saving Knapp Burrell & Co's store adjoining on the south. Fleischner Mayer & Co's store, adjoining on the north is three stories high but the roof caught fire. Chief Engineer Jordan with a few men mounted the roof cut away the burning timbers and extinguished the fire with buckets passed up from below by employes of the store. At one time a sheet of flame the entire length of the building swept over Knapp Burrell & Co's and destruction seemed inevitable when the wind died down allowing streams to be thrown on the roof and cornices. The cornices of Fleckenstein & Meyer's building and the Central block took fire but were extinguished. Nearly every pane of glass in the latter block was broken by the heat. After three hours good work the fire was practically under control though it is still burning.

LOSSES AND INSURANCE

Corbitt & Macleay's stock of which an inventory had just been finished, is valued at $143 000. It is a total loss. They carried insurance to the amount of $120 000 distributed as follows:

Imperial London Northern & Queen $30 000
London Liverpool & Globe $25 000
Commercial Union $20 000
Guardian $15 000
North British & Mercantile $10 000
Scottish Union & National $10 000

The building is owned by Capt J H C Ainsworth whose loss is between $20 000 and $25 000. He has no insurance.

All three floors of Fleischner Mayer & Co's house were filled with smoke which discolored many fabrics. The loss may reach $5000.

The south wall of the building occupied by them owned by R R Thompson is cracked in several places and probably $2000 will be required to repair it.

Knapp Burrell & Co sustained about $100 damages but they are so elated over their escape that they will make no claim upon the companies.

H L Hoyt and Noah Lambert lose about $400 by plate glass broken in the store occupied by Jacobs Bros & Co. Insured in the Home Mutual.

J W Gosz loses $100 in the same way on the building occupied by Mooney & Valentine.

Holman & Co, forwarders whose office adjoined Corbitt & Macleay lose their books and accounts to the amount of $4000.

Frazer Sperry & Co [illegible] commission merchants who had their office with Holman & Co, lose their records for two years including memoranda of money advanced.

BOARD OF TRADE [illegible]

All the books and papers of the board of trade which were in the custody of Hon J [illegible] the statistician were burned in Corbitt & Macleay's office. Records of meetings can be supplied from the files of THE OREGONIAN and the list of members from the last annual report but some valuable statistics regarding the cereal product of Oregon and Washington and daily market quotations to which Mr Cohn has devoted much time cannot be replaced.

A [illegible] HIT OF [illegible]

When Capt Ankeny erected the block in 18[illegible] he built it to stay. The partition walls were in fact as well as in name fire walls—thick and brick laid in cement no slovenly work by mason. The fire demonstrated his wisdom and the best economy. A division burning in the center of a block and the remainder comparatively uninjured is a novelty for Portland.

COMMENDABLE ENTERPRISE

At half past 8 o clock yesterday morning the regular office hour Corbitt & Macleay were ready for business. They secured a temporary office in the board of trade rooms had new blank books stationery and the regular counting house force. A large batch of orders just to hand received attention. They buying the goods of other houses. Telegraphic orders were sent to sources of supply for duplicates of everything burned five hours before and a temporary stock was ordered by wire from their San Francisco house. It will be shipped by the steamer leaving to-day. The large four story building in Dolph & Thompson's block adjoining Murphy Grant & Co was secured and will be occupied to-day. A large shipment for the house arrived by the Columbia last night. The firm announce that they are ready to fill all orders and by the middle of next week their business will be running as smoothly as it did last Thursday. Their enterprise reminds one of that reported of Chicago firms during their fires. The safe is still in the ruins but will be taken out to-day.

ORIGIN OF THE FIRE

Is unknown. It may be that it started from rats or mice gnawing matches or from a cigar dropped in the warehouse or from coals in the grate dropping on the office floor. The latter is not probable however as only a small fire was left in the grate when the office closed at six o clock. The fire could not have originated by spontaneous combustion.

Frame Block Burned.

When Twos engine company answered the call from box fifteen they started out Oak street. When they reached the corner of First they saw the roof of N Davis tailor shop on First street near Oak burning. Assuming this to be the fire for which the alarm was turned in they took water at the corner laid hose and began playing. Scarcely had they got to work when they discovered the fire two blocks below but as Ones and Fours were coming down street they deemed it best to stay and directed the other companies to go on. James Kiernan second assistant engineer took charge of the fire. With the terrible wind it was impossible to do otherwise than let the block burn and save adjoining buildings. The whole corner up to the two-story brick occupied by Obitz [illegible] on Oak street burned to the ground. The buildings occupied by Mat Keith's A Neppach and Burmelin & Duttman caught fire but by quick movement of the nozzle they were saved. Following is a

LIST OF LOSSES

Shipper & Rybke tailors $6000 insured for $[illegible] as follows: $1000 in South British and National $1500 in the Sun $1100 in the Oakland Home $1200 in the Hamburg Bremen.

The fire is supposed to have originated from a defective flue. A report was circulated that some one had been arrested for arson in connection with this fire but this is not true.

PRECAUTIONS IN THE ELEVATOR COMPANY

On account of the extreme cold water to supply exhaust [illegible] cisterns ran very slowly yesterday and had a fire broken out last night in a location where suction could not be taken from the river the result would have been disastrous. To bridge over the emergency Mr P F Morey superintendent of the Hydraulic Elevator company obtained consent from its patrons to give up use of their elevators for a few days so that he could use the works for fire purposes. He then attached to the six inch pipe running from the accumulator a cap with three stop cocks to fit the hose now in use. Three lines of hose were laid and steam was kept up all last night. In case a fire had broken out within two thousand feet [illegible] three streams at any pressure desired could have been supplied for an indefinite period. Mr Morey also rigged up an apparatus [illegible] [illegible] had frozen [illegible] [illegible] and [illegible] immediately available [illegible] [illegible] tarily Mr Morey [illegible] commended.

[illegible]

In answer to numerous [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible] yesterday [illegible] the local [illegible] [illegible] Messrs [illegible] [illegible] were putting the forms to press when they saw the fire. They got the facts wrote them up hurriedly but in good style set the type got the matter in the forms and presented to nineteen twen[illegible] tieths of the population of Portland their first knowledge of the conflagration.

Notes.

The fire was the principal topic of conversation in the city yesterday.

Some of the new hose was cracked by being reeled up while yet frozen.

Burning shingles were carried up by the wind from the fire and scattered for blocks around.

No one was seriously injured as reports at first had it, a few slight bruises only being received.

It is likely that Capt Ainsworth will rebuild early in the spring and make the building four stories high.

When the fire broke out through the Front street windows Corbitt & Macleay's signboard was literally written in letters of living flame.

Fleischner Mayer & Co, Mooney & Valentine and Jacobs Bros & Co were liberal in supplying firemen with gloves mittens and comforters.

Officers George Ward and Wm M Loan succeeded in carrying to a place of safety some of the tools and stock belonging to the shoemaker Dan Collins.

The paid department and its officers were highly commended for excellent service by insurance men the public generally and especially by old volunteer firemen.

Fearing danger on account of the excessive cold the night before the fire [illegible] Fleischner took out additional insurance to the amount of $41 000 just before closing hours.

This is the fourth narrow escape for Knapp Burrell & Co within a year. They were next door to the fires at Colfax at Walla Walla and at Pacific dock and lost scarcely anything.

The fire demonstrated the fact that iron shutters are very useful to keep a fire out of a building, but that when there is a fire in a building they form a very great obstruction to its extinguishment.

The ruins of Corbitt & Macleay's building yesterday presented a very strange appearance for this latitude, every corner and projection being adorned with icicles and the iron shutters crusted with ice.

For blocks around the scene of this morning's fires the pavements and streets were coated with ice rendering it extremely inconvenient for people passing. Falls were numerous but no one was seriously injured. Several horses were also thrown but they were raised to their feet without injury.

Mrs Dr Wheeler and Mrs A Cooke thoughtfully sent out a supply of hot coffee to the firemen yesterday morning and last evening seeing some of the boys up to their ankles in slush [illegible] Mr Cooke took out some more which was received thankfully by the boys at work but was rejected by some who had just come to work on the ground that it was not [illegible] and sugared to their taste. Some people are more [illegible] than wise.

Two Minor Blazes.

The house of William Halfpenny in Stephen's addition to East Portland was discovered to be on fire about half past ten Thursday night. The family were absent, but fortunately returned in time to save the house from total destruction. The loss occasioned by the blaze will not amount to more than $50.

Shortly after midnight a fire broke out in Frank Fetter's sausage factory at the lower end of East Park streets and the building was burned to the ground. The loss is $500 with no insurance. No alarm was sent in and very few people knew of the fire.

SHALL THE SCHOOL FUNDS BE LOANED?

[illegible] Jan [illegible]

To the EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

A Friend to Schools under date of Jan 8 1883 at Corvallis appears to be laboring under a delusion. The $180 000 of unproductive idle funds must be a myth. Application has been made from southern Oregon [illegible] [illegible] just prior to and since the legislature met for small loans of $400 to $1000. The answer to each application would be:

Dear Sir—The treasurer informs me that there are no school funds on hand to loan at this time.

Therefore there is nothing that prevents the loaning of the funds if there are any to loan.

NEW ENTERPRISE

J L Wickersham of East Portland has just completed a mill near the O & C R R shops for the manufacture of bone phosphate and pure ground bone. This being a new enterprise in Oregon your correspondent visited the mill yesterday and learned the following particulars in regard to the [illegible] operation from the proprietor. The bones are thrown into a large crusher from the crusher they run into an elevator and are discharged into a wire screen 36 feet long and 10 inches in diameter. By this screen they are divided the smaller bones running to the grinding mill the larger ones back to the crusher. From the grinding mill they are again elevated and pass through a fine screen. The [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] phosphate [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] building is [illegible] feet. ALBANY NOTES.

[FROM THE OREGONIAN'S LOCAL CORRESPONDENT.]

ALBANY Jan 17

Weather to day has been very cold.

A roller skating rink is doing well here.

We had a small snow on Sunday but it was gone by noon.

A new central school house is talked of for the one now in use is old and rickety and a disgrace to our city.

Messrs Cherry and Parker have built an addition to their foundry, doubling it in size. They are doing well and deserve the success they meet.

A sociable given by the ladies of the First Presbyterian church at the residence of Dr D B Rice on Tuesday evening was well attended and quite a sum was realized for the church.

[illegible] FOLK TALES.

[illegible] there was a farmer who [illegible] poor—and to add to his misery [illegible] and neither he nor [illegible] of his neighbors could tell [illegible] with him.

[illegible] sent his son to the doctor, [illegible] village a few miles off, to beg [illegible] to the farm, but the doctor was [illegible] the farmer [illegible] him some[illegible] and he said to the boy, "No, I will no[illegible] your father, I should never be pai[illegible]

[illegible] the doctor saw the boy begin to [illegible] that his father would surely [illegible] heart was touched, and he said: "[illegible] to go and see your father, but [illegible] three hairs from his head and [illegible] let him know what ails [illegible]

[illegible] and told his father, [illegible] three hairs out of his [illegible] wrapped them in a piece of paper [illegible] him to carry to the doctor, [illegible] to be very careful and not [illegible]

[illegible] was going to the village—I [illegible] that it was in winter time [illegible] he came to a hill where [illegible] sliding, and they asked him [illegible] as he put the three hairs [illegible] on the fence and went and [illegible] almost dark. Then when he [illegible] lo and behold! they [illegible] and he could find no trace of [illegible]

[illegible] very much frightened, for he [illegible] would find out that he had [illegible] and would whip him, but [illegible] saw a stable in which were sev[illegible] went in and plucked three [illegible] the tail of one of the cows and [illegible] in a piece of paper and took [illegible] doctor.

[illegible] doctor was given the three hairs [illegible] at them curiously for a moment, [illegible] said: "Goodness, gracious!" and he [illegible] "Are you sure that is your [illegible] hair?"

[illegible] boy was terribly frightened now, for he [illegible] would get a tremendous whipping, [illegible] for it and he answered [illegible]

[illegible] took down his microscope and [illegible] three hairs, and then he looked [illegible] books, and at last he said, [illegible] your father I can do nothing for [illegible] going to become a cow, and when [illegible] to buy veal for the Easter [illegible] surely slaughter your father, [illegible] Run home and tell him I said so, [illegible] he doesn't hook you with his [illegible]

[illegible] returned and told his father [illegible] said his father wept and [illegible] he said, "I must go [illegible] because I don't want [illegible] besides, think of [illegible] upon the family if [illegible]!"

[illegible] put some food in [illegible] over his shoulder and [illegible]

[illegible] dark and he arrived at [illegible] upon the ice, and [illegible] river he saw two black [illegible] up amid the snow. At first he [illegible] two sticks, but when he came [illegible] they were the boots of a [illegible] crossing the river and [illegible] head foremost and had [illegible] the ice, with which the stream [illegible]

[illegible] boots," said the man to himself. [illegible] so near nightfall that I would [illegible] the man out; besides, during [illegible] the ice might break up, or the [illegible] the place up, so I will cut off [illegible] no objection, and take [illegible] with me and thaw them out at my [illegible]

[illegible] the man if he had any objec[illegible] no answer was returned, said he: [illegible] and he chopped off the [illegible] boots and all, put them in his bag, [illegible] until he had crossed the river [illegible] to a farm house near the bank.

[illegible] and his wife were the only per[illegible] when he asked them for a night's [illegible] answered, "Why, certainly! Only [illegible] my wife and I, to a dance at a [illegible] house, and it will be late when we [illegible] we must leave you alone. You [illegible] something to eat in the kitchen, and [illegible] in the little room yonder. So, [illegible]

[illegible] traveler had not told them [illegible] which he had in the bag, for [illegible] wish to be taken for a murderer, [illegible] they had gone he ate a hearty sup[illegible] put the boots beside the fire and lay [illegible] soon he went to sleep and slept [illegible] he was tired.

[illegible] farmer and his wife owned several [illegible] them was one calf which [illegible] and very feeble, and it was a [illegible] and they had been afraid it [illegible] death in the barn, they had [illegible] into the house and laid it in the [illegible] beside the fire.

[illegible] of the night the warmth re[illegible] so that it stood up, and being [illegible] about the house in search [illegible] to eat, and presently it ran [illegible] bed where the man was lying [illegible] licked his hand, which was hang[illegible] the edge of the bed, and said [illegible]

[illegible] and he jumped out [illegible] the calf. "Goodness gracious!" [illegible] doctor was right—I have [illegible] a cow, sure enough, and when [illegible] for calves for the Easter [illegible] slaughtered! I must run [illegible] here as fast as I can!"

[illegible] himself and opened the door [illegible] out and ran away, and he [illegible] hurry to be off that he forgot all [illegible] boots with the legs in them, of the [illegible] which he had left before the fire.

[illegible] he had gone a long way the sun rose [illegible] daylight, and as he felt thirsty he [illegible] where there was a spring and stooped to [illegible] the water, and as he did so he saw his face [illegible] in the water, and lo and behold! he was [illegible] a cow at all, but a man, just as he had been before.

"How is this?" he said, in astonishment. "[illegible] I have not been turned into a cow at all, [illegible] a man just as I was, or else I have been [illegible] and have recovered my usual shape. [illegible] the spring where I drank was a fairy [illegible] In any case, I had better go back to the [illegible] and get the boots, or else I shall be [illegible] for a murderer and the constable will be [illegible] me." So he went back to the farm-house.

Now, when the farmer and his wife returned from the dance, great was their surprise to discover no signs of the stranger whom they had left in the house. They hunted here and there and everywhere, and at last they found the boots before the fire with the drowned man's legs in them.

"Goodness gracious!" they cried, as they wrung their hands; the calf has eaten the stranger up, all except his legs—of course the [illegible] it [illegible] and we shall be [illegible] for [illegible] Oh, what shall we do?"

"Never mind," said the wife, after they had wept for some time, "but do as I tell you and all will be well. You know we have a three-bushel bag of silver dollars buried in the cellar. When the constable comes to take us up we will offer him the money and perhaps he will say nothing about it."

At that moment the stranger knocked at the door, and the instant he opened said: "Ho, my good people, there was a man stopped at your house last night, wasn't there?" the farmer and his wife fell upon their knees and said: "Oh, good Mr. Constable, there was, but the calf ate him up, all but his boots. We did not kill him—we swear that we did not—and if you will only go away, good Mr. Constable, we will give you a three-bushel bag full of silver dollars."

So the man took the bag of silver dollars and went home and paid the doctor, and the doctor plucked three hairs out of his head and examined them with a microscope, and said, "My friend, you are cured now—the change of air must have done it—but you have had a very narrow escape!" And the man became the richest farmer in the whole country, and the doctor became the most famous doctor.

And that's all.

PACIFIC COAST NEWS.

CALIFORNIA.

Interesting Personal News.

San Francisco, Jan. 19.—The steamer Oregon arrived this morning, 66 hours from bar to bar, after a most delightful trip, during which the weather was unexampled.

John Oran, wife and niece arrived to-day from Portland and are registered at the Palace. In the course of a few days Mr. Oran will go east, remaining there about six weeks. Mrs. Oran and niece will then leave for Los Angeles and a visit to the southern portion of the state, and Mrs. Oran will return in time to meet her husband.

Mr. and Mrs. George T. Myers also arrived this morning. Mrs. Myers will visit Monterey for a short time, her husband returning to Portland in the course of a week.

J. W. Taylor, ex-superintendent of schools of this city, will leave shortly for a visit to Oregon.

Gen. J. W. Sprague and Capt. J. C. Ainsworth are about to start for a protracted visit in the east for the benefit of their health. They will be accompanied by their wives, and the party will proceed direct to New Orleans and thence to Mexico. Gen. Sprague is much improved in health since his arrival here.

Isaac Kaufman, just returned from the east, will start for Portland next week.

Shubrick Norris, who left for Portland per steamer Columbia, will represent the firm of E. G. Pearce & Co. there, and also attend to some private business.

Mathew Webb, extensively known throughout Oregon, and formerly bookkeeper for Corbitt and Macleay, was buried last Sunday, after a very brief illness.

Major Vic Trevitt, an old resident of The Dalles, is lying at the point of death from a pulmonary complaint. He recently returned from San Rafael, where he had gone to benefit his health. He is unable to speak, and his death is expected every moment.

C. S. Schenck has just returned from a trip to the springs, with seven pounds less avoirdupois.

David Muncaster is guest of his son-in-law, Capt. Lewis M. Starr. He is afflicted with rheumatism, but still goes out hunting and fishing.

F. J. Martin, late of Portland, has purchased one-half interest in the old established liquor firm of E. Martin & Co., and is at present residing in Oakland.

Dr. Payton of Salem, passed Carlin to-day, bound west, and will reach here on the 20th.

The following Oregonians are registered at the hotels: Chas. A. Hungate, Chas. P. Church, wife and daughter, and Miss Kate Dement, all of Portland, and Miss Bessie Brunton, of Walla Walla, are at the Palace; Mrs. Dr. Jones, of Portland, is at the Grand; E. R. Root, of Washington territory, and S. R. Root, of Portland, are at the Lick.

Extensive Mining Swindle.

San Francisco, Jan. 19.—An extensive swindle in connection with operations in bogus mines, has been discovered and upon which Edward Mahoney & Son, John F. Mahoney, have been arrested. It appears that as far back as 1881, these parties opened an office in this city and began selling shares in five alleged gold mines. They confined their attention to foreigners, and on pledge of secrecy, would inform them of the coming bonanza. By this and similar methods they succeeded in disposing of large quantities of stock, and ultimately had one of their mines, the Atlas, listed in the stock exchange. By watered sales they managed to keep the price up and induced some forty persons to invest in various amounts, aggregating upwards of $80,000. The Mahoneys have previously figured in similar transactions. The elder bought goods on the strength of the indorsement of Lawrence O'Toole, of Gilroy, whose loss is estimated at $40,000.

Crookedness Somewhere.

The municipal financial officers promise to develop a sensation in regard to the district department under the recent administration. Some of the records have been stolen for the purpose, as is said, of concealing facts which would show that funds have been used to pay persons who never performed work, and other dummies. A bookkeeper of the corporation yard states that he refused to close the books for December because the accounts would not balance. According to his accounts more money was drawn from the treasury than the department were entitled to draw.

Damage to Shipping by Heavy Windstorm.

Heavy gales have blown steadily from the northeast for the past 24 hours, causing great damage to shipping in the harbor. The sea wall, which was recently repaired owing to the damage done by the storm which ushered in the New Year, has again been considerably punished and several vessels lying alongside have been badly chafed. The schooner Wavelet had its side stove in, and a scow, moored by the British ship Rogian Castle, carrying a portion of her cargo consisting of 25 tons of scrap iron, was sunk. At the north end the wharf was washed away. Weather is coldest ever experienced.

Mining Matters.

According to quotations in the San Francisco stock board, yesterday, the Comstock lode is worth $2,806,700, the lowest price in 15 years. The depression in the stock market is general, and this afternoon excitement was occasioned by the news that the Bed Wood, Consolidated Mahoney and North Mahoney, all Bodie mines, had filed petitions in insolvency. The statement of the bullion product for the Pacific coast for the past year has been issued by Wells, Fargo & Co., showing an aggregated amount of $92,411,835, as against $84,[illegible]. Oregon fell off last year $543,079 from the product of the preceding year.

Reduction of Pilotage.

A joint meeting was held to-night by the chamber of commerce, board of trade and California ship-owners' association, at which the draft of a bill was offered and adopted, which will be presented to the legislature. The bill provides for the material reduction in rates of pilotage at this port, also at Oakland, Vallejo, Port Costa and Humboldt bay.

Against the Railroad.

A suit instituted by the city to recover tax on the franchise of the Central Pacific railroad, was decided to-day in favor of plaintiff in the sum of $164,000. The issue in the case was whether a franchise of a corporation is liable to taxation.

Largest Safe ever Sent North.

The largest safe ever shipped north was placed to-day on board the steamship Oregon. It is to be used in the land office of the Northern Pacific railroad, and weighs 3½ tons.

UTAH.

A Little Girl Tied to Bed and Left to Starve.

Salt Lake, Jan. 19.—A shocking case of cruelty was discovered yesterday in this city by Dr. Benedict, who was called to attend an old woman named Dastie, who, in pursuing her son up stairs with a hatchet, was knocked down, falling the length of the stairs. The doctor, having occasion to go into the back rooms, saw a child stretched on a bed, which, on investigation, proved to be a girl 11 years of age, who was tied to the bed with ropes. She was at once released and, being in a starving condition, was furnished food by the doctor. The son accused the mother of the fiendish act and the mother accused the son of attempting to starve the girl in this cruel manner. The affair is being investigated.

IDAHO.

The Oregon Short Line going down Snake River.

Lewiston, Jan 19.—The Oregon Short Line have abandoned the Burnt river canyon and turned their course down the canyon of Snake river to Lewiston, and have already located eighty miles between here and the mouth of Burnt river. The chief of the location party is here. He started a company of surveyors yesterday from this point to locate up the east side of Snake to meet the party coming down the river. The destination is Puget Sound, by one of the passes of the Cascades.

Thermometer fourteen below zero this morning at this place.

WASHINGTON TERRITORY.

Cold Weather on the Sound.

Seattle, Jan. 19.—The cold weather of the fast three days has been the severest experienced here in nine years. The mercury was down to 20 degrees above zero on Wednesday and Thursday, and 8 degrees on Friday morning. Considerable ice has formed on the bays of the Sound, while several dams, emptying into it, are closed. The water supply of the town has been almost entirely cut off, but few residences having any, while all the mills have been compelled to shut down for want of water. Skating is indulged in by hundreds, the lakes near town affording the best possible places for that amusement.

Issue of Money Orders in the Last Ten Years.

In the issue of money orders, the Seattle postoffice has made very steady gains year after year from the beginning. In 1871, when the system was introduced 160 orders were issued, and the number since then has been as below stated:

1872	732	1878	2518
1873	800	1879	3117
1874	946	1880	3714
1875	1676	1881	4006
1876	2154	1882	6322
1877	2404

The issue of 9000 orders is anticipated in 1883.

Tales of the West.

Denver Tribune.

A Chicago lady once applied to a learned judge for a divorce. "What is the name of the husband?" inquired the learned judge. "I have no husband yet, but inasmuch as I contemplate matrimony I feel that I should be prepared for the worst."

A dog and his tail fell into a dispute as to which should wag the other. An itinerant wasp passing, tastily casually remarked, "Speaking of tails reminds me that I possess one which may possibly be influential enough to wag you both." This fable teaches that ten cents worth of dynamite is bigger than a church steeple.

An editor once owned three hundred thousand dollars worth of railroad stock, twenty one thousand dollar government bonds, six white shirts, a country residence on the Hudson, a farm in Illinois, a span of horses and a wagon, two suits of clothes and a plug hat. This fable teaches that all the liars are not dead yet.

USELESS FRIGHT.

To worry about any Liver, Kidney or Urinary trouble, especially Bright's Disease or Diabetes, as Hop Bitters never fails to cure where a cure is possible. We know this.

FIRE AND COMMERCE.

Thursday, Jan. 19.

The disastrous fire of last night has had a dampening effect upon business of all kinds to-day, and even the wheat market felt the effect to a certain extent. Offerings were light and holders of large lots are holding off. Quotations are a point or two higher than yesterday, and the market may be called fair at $1 75@1 78. It is probable that round lots would bring a higher price.

The freight situation shows a little more life. The charter of the Henry Villard, a new ship, at 40s for flour, followed by that of the El Capitan at 38s for wheat may be taken as expressing the general state of the market. The Br bk Lanarkshire, which came here under a high charter, is reported to have been taken at a much lower figure for flour.

The produce market shows no change. Heavy receipts of eggs to-day and yesterday have kept the market in good supply and quotations are still the same.

The total loss by last night's fire of the stock of one of our largest wholesale grocery houses will not have a very injurious effect upon our trade, although its effect may be temporarily bad. The firm will resume at once in more commodious quarters, and the stoppage of trade be slight.

NEW YORK FREIGHTS AND MARKETS.

New York, Jan. 19.—The freight market via Cape Horn remains very quiet, partly owing to the stormy weather and the difficulty of transportation by drays through the streets and by lighters on the rivers, the latter being packed by ice. However, there is a much better feeling in the market, as evidenced by more frequent inquiries both from regular shippers and others who have heretofore been forwarding their goods overland, several of whom have withdrawn entirely from that route and have already resumed shipments via Cape Horn. The Armenia finished loading this evening and has a full cargo. The St. Paul will probably finish to-morrow or Monday. Rates are firmer and early advances are predicted. In consequence of the scarcity of ships long voyage tonnage continues scarce and is held at very full rates. The fact that so many vessels are tied up at San Francisco is a matter of comment, and is pointed to as a surety that vessels desirable for this trade are likely to be scarce for some time, and as a consequence higher rates must prevail. The latest chartered ship is the Iroquois, with coal from Baltimore to San Francisco, at or about $7, for April loading. Railroad freights are quiet; shipments for the past week include 630 packages tobacco, 60 cases syrup, 60 packages dates, 100 boxes candles, 100 cases milk, 42 bags nuts, 17 cases figs, 50 bags coffee, 202 cases canned goods, 1250 cases baking powder, 550 cases bitters, 300 cases wine, 50 cases sardines, 300 cases sugar; also a quantity of hats, paper-hangings, etc.

Review of the Grain Market.

Liverpool, Jan. 19.—A leading weekly grain circular says: Grain continued firm and rates are further advanced. Foreign grain generally is six pence to a shilling better. In native grain there was only an occasional rise. Cargoes were firmly held and good business was done. At to-day's market there was moderate business. Red wheat was a penny dearer, white wheat was firm and unchanged. Flour was in good demand, and for some qualities there was an occasional rise. Corn was one penny to two pence better.

Boston Wool Market.

Boston, Jan. 19.—The demand for wool continues steady and prices unchanged. Sales of the week 2,800,000 pounds including Ohio and Pennsylvania fleeces, 38@40c for X, 40@42c for XX, 43@44c for XXX and above. NOTES FROM CORVALLIS.

[FROM THE OREGONIAN'S LOCAL CORRESPONDENT.]

Corvallis, Jan. 18.

Fifty-nine marriage licenses were issued last year by the county clerk.

The initial number of The Gem, a monthly journal to be published by the literary societies of the agricultural college, is in press.

Mr. R. S. Culverwell, C. E., of San Francisco, arrived here last week under engagement by the Oregon Pacific, and has been assigned to tunnels Nos. 1 and 2, at the summit, as resident engineer.

The boarding hall and school house at Siletz agency, which were destroyed by fire last fall, are to be rebuilt in the spring, the department having directed the agent to forward plans and estimates, that the necessary means may be provided.

Work has not stopped on the Oregon Pacific tunnels, as reported. Your correspondent to-day called at the railroad office, and was informed that the work is progressing as usual. The rumor probably grew out of a two or three days' stoppage at the summit on account of bad weather. An additional gang of Chinamen will start for tunnel No. 2 to-day.

Johnson Porter, whose name is mentioned in connection with the murder of Mr. Cummings at New York bar, is a young man of 27 years, and was born and raised in Benton county. He went to Pomeroy about one year ago, prior to which time he resided at Corvallis. While here he was regarded as an exemplary young man, and his character was unblemished. Those who knew him best are confident of his innocence.

LOG ROLLING.

While Wrestling with a Fallen Tree a Lumberman Receives Consequential Damages.

While on a hunting excursion in the great coal and wood region near Carbondale, Pa., the writer met William Coll, a lumberman. Accustomed to life and labor in the forest from early manhood, he was a true Knight of the Ax. Many a tree had fallen before his ringing strokes, and fleets of rafts had borne away to market the sawed products. Coll is a character, and if Oscar Wilde is right in saying that all movements in unhindered labor are graceful, our friend William, stripped for his work, and attacking a tree as Richard I. assaulted the heavy doors of Front de Boeuf's Castle, must have presented an admirable picture.

One day, however—but let him tell the story himself as he told it to me:

"I was out in the woods, you know, trying to start a log down a hill. Thinking I could get a better purchase on it from the lower side, I tackled it there with my log-rolling hook and threw my weight on the lever. She started, she did, but as luck would have it, before I could get out of the way she rolled right over me. If it hadn't been for a lot of small limbs and brush lying in the road, which lifted her up, she'd a crushed me flat. As it was I got up without a broken bone, but with some mighty bad bruises."

"Then you were all right," said his auditor.

"Not by a blamed sight, stranger. I took cold, rheumatism set in, and if I hadn't heard of BENSON'S CAPCINE POROUS PLASTERS and used 'em, it's my opinion I should never have made another chip fly. But the Capcine took hold quick, and I'm 'bout as good as new. But there's one thing you kin calkilate on: I shall never wrastle with another log unless I have the advantage of the ground. Fur, as I told you before, if it hadn't been for them brushes I'd been smashed so you could 'a sold me for a door mat."

The Capcine is the thing for rheumatism. It doesn't keep you waiting. The word CAPCINE is cut in the center of the genuine. Price 25 cents.

DR. PAUL M. BRENAN,

THE

Most Successful Physician on the Pacific Coast in the Treatment of

ALL CHRONIC & DIFFICULT DISEASES

DR. BRENAN WILL GUARANTEE TO CURE any form of disease of the generative organs or private disease. He has become an expert in the treatment of disease, weakness and derangement of the reproductive organs of both male and female, including diseases caused by the

FOLLIES OF YOUTH,

Such as Spermatorrhea, or Seminal Weakness, or Loss of Perfect Virility. Nearly two-thirds of all the Chronic Diseases spring either directly or indirectly from some derangement of the sexual system, and yet this subject is neglected by the majority of the Medical Profession.

I know that persons who are unfortunate enough to be afflicted by any form of sexual disease have a delicacy in calling upon the proper physician in time, from a sense of modesty and sometimes from ignorance, and permit these diseases to exist until their constitutions become corrupted, their organization broken down, and the hope of future happiness blighted, until death becomes a welcome messenger to carry them out of their miserable existence.

Everything strictly confidential under all circumstances.

Lost manhood perfectly restored. Catarrh, Bronchitis, Throat Diseases, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Kidney Complaint, and all Diseases of the Eye and Ear, Stomach and Bladder, he can cure without fail.

Consultation Free, and a list of printed questions sent to those living at a distance who cannot consult him personally. Enclose postage stamp for list.

Four little eyes wide in the dark
[illegible]
And Jennie [illegible]
Perhaps [illegible]

[illegible]

And nice little watches, and dishes, and [illegible],
And [illegible]

"Yes," answered Jennie, "I expect he will bring
The splendidest rocking-horse, Johnnie, for you."
Then Johnnie he clapped his fat little hands
And laughed till you'd thought some fairy was out;
And Jennie she laughed and shouted in glee
Till Santa Claus heard her, if he was about.

And I think that he was, for after awhile,
When Johnnie and Jennie were lying asleep,
Each dear little face still bright with its smile,
Each curly head covered half up with the sheet,

There was a tinkle below like the music of bells
And laughter that rippled right up through the walls,
And a murmur like that we hear in sea shells
Drifted up from the stairway into the halls.

And Jennie and Johnnie wake up with the sun
And their little bare feet patter over the floor,
And down the broad stairs together they run,
And each curly head is thrust in at the door

Of the great drawing-room, where the first thing they see,
All lighted with candles, and filled to its top
With beautiful things, is the tall Christmas tree,
And the loveliest horse that goes off on a trot.

When you wind up a spring right back of his ear
That's for Johnnie to ride; and a dollie in white,
In a beautiful carriage, is sitting right near—
Both Johnnie and Jennie hold their breath at the sight.

"O, darlingest Santa Claus!" says Johnnie at last;
"I love him," says Jennie, "he's dear as can be;
If I could see him I'd hold him so fast,
And hug him and kiss him for you and for me."

CANADIAN FOLK TALES.

Once upon a time there was a farmer who was poor—very poor—and to add to his misfortunes he was taken ill, and neither he nor his wife nor any of his neighbors could tell what was the matter with him.

At last the farmer sent his son to the doctor, who lived in the village a few miles off, to beg him to come to the farm, but the doctor was very busy and the farmer owed him some money, and he said to the boy, "No, I will not go and see your father, I should never be paid for my trouble."

But when the doctor saw the boy begin to cry and to lament that his father would surely die, his heart was touched and he said: "I cannot afford to go and see your father, but let him send me three hairs from his head and I will look at them and let him know what ails him."

So the boy went home and told his father, and his father pulled three hairs out of his head and wrapped them in a piece of paper and gave them to him to carry to the doctor, and warned him to be very careful and not lose them.

But as the boy was going to the village—I should have said that it was in winter time that all this happened—he came to a hill where all the boys were sliding, and they asked him to slide with them; so he put the three hairs away very carefully on the fence and went and slid till it was almost dark. Then when he went to look for the hairs, lo and behold! they had blown away and he could find no trace of them.

At this he was very much frightened, for he knew his father would find out that he had neglected his errand and would whip him, but just beyond he saw a stable in which were several cows, so he went in and plucked three hairs from the tail of one of the cows and wrapped them in a piece of paper and took them to the doctor.

When the doctor was given the three hairs he looked at them carelessly for a moment, then he said: "Goodness, gracious!" and he said to the boy; "Are you sure that is your father's hair?"

The boy was terribly frightened now, for he felt sure he would get a tremendous whipping, but there was no help for it and he answered firmly: "Yes, sir!"

The doctor took down his microscope and examined the three hairs, and then he looked through a lot of books, and at last he said, "Go and tell your father I can do nothing for him. He is going to become a cow, and when the butcher comes to buy veal for the Easter market, he will surely slaughter your father, he is so [illegible]. Run home and tell him I said so, and take care he doesn't hook you with his horns."

When the boy returned and told his father what the doctor had said his father wept and tore his hair. "Alas!" he said, "I must go away from here instantly, because I don't want to be killed by the butcher; besides, think of the disgrace it would bring upon the family if I should grow horns and moo."

So he took his axe and he put some food in a bag and threw the bag over his shoulder and wandered away.

And it came on to be dark and he arrived at a river and set out to cross it upon the ice, and in the middle of the river he saw two black things sticking up amid the snow. At first he thought they were two sticks, but when he came nearer he discovered they were the boots of a traveler who had been crossing the river and had fallen into the water head foremost and had been frozen into the ice, with which the stream was covered.

"They are new boots," said the man to himself, "and it was so near nightfall that I would not have time to cut the man out; besides, during the night the ice might break up, or the snow might cover the place up, so I will cut off the man's legs, if he has no objection, and take the boots with me and thaw them out at my leisure."

So he asked the man if he had any objection, and when no answer was returned, said he, "Silence gives consent," and he chopped off the man's legs, boots and all, put them in his bag, and walked on until he had crossed the river and had come to a farm house near the bank.

The farmer and his wife were the only persons there and when he asked them for a night's lodging they answered, "Why certainly! Only we're going, my wife and I, to a dance at a neighbor's house, and it will be late when we get home, so we must leave you alone. You will find something to eat in the kitchen, and you can sleep in the little room yonder. So, good night!"

Of course the traveler had not told them about the boots which he had in the bag, for he did not wish to be taken for a murderer, and when they had gone he ate a hearty supper and set the boots beside the fire and lay down, and soon he went to sleep and slept heavily, for he was tired.

Now, the farmer and his wife owned several cattle, and among them was one calf which was very young and very feeble, and it was a cold, cold night and they had been afraid it would freeze to death in the barn, they had brought it into the house and laid it in the chimney-corner beside the fire.

In the middle of the night the warmth revived the calf so that it stood up, and being hungry, it tottered about the house in search of something to eat, and presently it ran against the bed where the man was lying asleep, and licked his hand, which was hanging over the edge of the bed, and said "Ba-a-a-a!"

This awakened the man, and he jumped out of bed and stared at the calf. "Goodness gracious!" said he, "the doctor was right. I have been turned into a cow sure enough, and when the butcher comes to buy calves for the Easter market I shall be slaughtered! I must run away from here as fast as I can!"

So he dressed himself and opened the door quietly and slipped out and ran away, and he was in such a hurry that [illegible] all about the boots with the legs in them of the drowned man, which he had left before the fire.

But when he had gone a long way the sun rose and it was daylight, and as he [illegible] stop at [illegible] where there was [illegible]

[illegible]

poor little thing could not bear through the [illegible] and we shall never be able to make the [illegible] believe that it was the calf did it, and we shall be sent to prison for life and [illegible] what shall [illegible]

[illegible]

"And if you will only go away, Mr. Constable, we will give you a thousand bushels of silver dollars."

So the man took the bag of silver dollars and went home and pulled the hair of and the doctor plucked three hairs out of his head and examined them with a microscope and said, "My friend, you are cured now; the change of air must have done it; but you have had a very narrow escape!" And the man became the richest farmer in the whole country and the doctor became the most famous doctor.

And that's all.

PACIFIC COAST NEWS.

CALIFORNIA.

Interesting Personal News.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 19.—The steamer Oregon arrived this morning, 46 hours from bar to bar, after a most delightful trip, during which the weather was unexampled.

John Cran, wife and niece arrived to-day from Portland and are registered at the Palace. In the course of a few days Mr. Cran will go east, remaining there about six weeks. Mrs. Cran and niece will then leave for Los Angeles and a visit to the southern portion of the state, and Mrs. Cran will return in time to meet her husband.

Mr. and Mrs. George T. Myers also arrived this morning. Mrs. Myers will visit Monterey for a short time, her husband returning to Portland in the course of a week.

J. W. Taylor, ex-superintendent of schools of this city, will leave this city for a visit to Oregon.

Gen. J. W. Sprague and Capt. J. C. Ainsworth are about to start for a protracted visit in the east for the benefit of their health. They will be accompanied by their wives, and the party will proceed direct to New Orleans and thence to Mexico. Gen. Sprague is much improved in health since his arrival here.

Isaac Kaufman, just returned from the east, will start for Portland next week.

Shubrick Norris, who left for Portland per steamer Columbia, will represent the firm of Esch, Pearce & Co. there, and also attend to some private business.

Mathew Webb, extensively known throughout Oregon, and formerly bookkeeper for Corbitt and Macleay, was buried last Sunday, after a very brief illness.

Major Vic Trevitt, an old resident of The Dalles, is lying at the point of death from a pulmonary complaint. He recently returned from San Rafael, where he had gone to benefit his health. He is unable to speak and his death is expected every moment.

C. S. Schenck has just returned from a trip to the springs, with seven pounds less avoirdupois.

David Monastes is guest of his son-in-law, Capt. Lewis M. Starr. He is afflicted with rheumatism, but still goes out hunting and fishing.

P. J. Martin, late of Portland, has purchased one half interest in the old established liquor firm of E. Martin & Co., and is at present residing in Oakland.

Dr. Payton of Salem, passed Carlin to-day, bound west, and will reach here on the 25th.

The following Oregonians are registered at the hotels: Chas. A. Hungate, Chas. P. Camich, wife and daughter and Miss Kate Dement, all of Portland, and Miss Bessie Brunlon, of Walla Walla, are at the Palace; Mrs. Dr. Jones, of Portland, is at the Grand; E. R. Root, of Washington territory, and N. M. Root, of Portland, are at the Lick.

Extensive Mining Swindle.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 19.—An extensive swindle in connection with operations in bogus mines, has been discovered and upon which Edward Mahoney & Son John F. Mahoney, have been arrested. It appears that as far back as 1881, these parties opened an office in this city and began selling shares in five alleged gold mines. They confined their attention to foreigners, and on pledge of secrecy, would inform them of the coming bonanza. By this and similar methods they succeeded in disposing of large quantities of stock, and ultimately had one of their mines, the Aztec, listed in the stock exchange. By watered sales, they managed to keep the price up and induced some forty persons to invest in various amounts, aggregating upwards of $20,000. The Mahoneys have previously figured in similar transactions. The elder bought goods on the strength of the indorsement of Lawrence O'Toole, of Gilroy, whose loss is estimated at $40,000.

Crookedness Somewhere.

The municipal financial officers promise to develop a sensation in regard to the district department under the recent administration. Some of the records have been stolen for the purpose, as is said, of concealing facts which would show that funds have been used to pay persons who never performed work, and other dummies. A bookkeeper of the corporation yard states that he refused to close the books for December because the accounts would not balance. According to his accounts more money was drawn from the treasury than the department were entitled to draw.

Damage to Shipping by Heavy Windstorm.

Heavy gales have blown steadily from the northeast for the past 24 hours, causing great damage to shipping in the harbor. The sea wall, which was recently repaired owing to the damage done by the storm which ushered in the New Year, has again been considerably punished and several vessels lying alongside have been badly chafed. The schooner Wavelet had its side stove in, and a scow, moored by the British ship Rostan Castle, carrying a portion of her cargo consisting of 25 tons of scrap iron, was sunk. At the north end the wharf was washed away. Weather is coldest ever experienced.

Mining Matters.

According to quotations in the San Francisco stock board, yesterday, the Comstock lode is worth $2,504,500, the lowest price in 15 years. The depression in the stock market is general, and this afternoon excitement was occasioned by the news that the Red Cloud, Consolidated Noonday and North Noonday, all Bodie mines, had filed petitions in insolvency. The statement of the bullion product for the Pacific coast for the past year has been issued by Wells, Fargo & Co., showing an aggregated amount of $92,411,835, as against $84,504,417. Oregon fell off last year $143,070 from the product of the preceding year.

Reduction of Pilotage.

A joint meeting was held to-night by the chamber of commerce, board of trade, and California shipowners' association, at which the draft of a bill was offered and adopted which will be presented to the legislature. The bill provides for the material reduction in rates of pilotage at this port, also at Oakland, Vallejo, Port Costa and Humboldt bay.

Against the Railroad.

A suit instituted by the city to recover tax on the franchise of the Central Pacific railroad, was decided to-day in favor of plaintiff in the sum of $154,000. The issue in the case was whether a franchise of a corporation is liable to taxation.

Largest Safe ever Sent North.

The largest safe ever shipped north was placed to-day on board the steamship Oregon. It is to be used in the land office of the Northern Pacific railroad, and weighs 6½ tons.

UTAH.

A Little Girl Tied to Bed and Left to Starve.

SALT LAKE, Jan. 19.—A shocking case of cruelty was discovered yesterday in this city by Dr. Benedict, who was called to attend an old woman named Davis, who, in pursuing her son up stairs with a hatchet, was knocked down, falling the length of the stairs. The doctor, having occasion to go into the back rooms, saw a child stretched on a bed, which, on investigation, proved to be a girl 11 years of age, who was tied to the bed with ropes. She was at once released and, being in a starving condition, was furnished food by the doctor. The son accused the mother of the fiendish act and the mother accused the son of attempting to starve the girl in this cruel manner. The affair is being investigated.

IDAHO.

The Oregon Short Line going down Snake River.

LEWISTON, Jan. 19.—The Oregon Short Line have abandoned the Burnt river canyon and turned their course down the canyon of Snake river to Lewiston, and have already located eighty miles between here and the mouth of Burnt river. The chief of the location party is here. He started a company of surveyors yesterday from this point to locate up the east side of Snake to meet the party coming down the river. The destination is Puget Sound, by one of the passes of the Cascade.

There is [illegible] below zero this morning at this place.

Cold Weather on the Sound.

SEATTLE, Jan. 19.—The cold weather of the last three days has been the severest experienced here in nine years. The mercury was down to 20 degrees above zero on Wednesday and Thursday, and 8 degrees on Friday morning. Considerable ice has formed on the bays of the Sound, while several were enjoying [illegible] are closed. The water supply of the town has been almost entirely cut off, but few residences having any, while all the mills have been compelled to shut down for want of water. Skating is indulged in by hundreds, the lakes near town affording the best possible places for that amusement.

NEW YORK FREIGHTS AND MARKETS.

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—The freight market via Cape Horn remains very quiet, partly owing to the stormy weather and the difficulty of transportation by drays through the streets and by lighterage on the rivers, the latter being packed by ice. However, there is much better feeling in the market, as evidenced by more frequent shipments both from regular shippers and others who have heretofore been shipping their goods overland, several of whom have withdrawn entirely from that route and have already resumed shipments via Cape Horn. The Alhambra finished loading this evening and has a full cargo. The St. Paul will probably finish to-morrow or Monday. Rates are firmer and early advances are predicted. In consequence of the scarcity of ships long voyage tonnage continues scarce and is held at very full rates. The fact that so many vessels are tied up at San Francisco is a matter of comment and is pointed to as a surety that vessels desirable for this trade are likely to be scarce for some time, and as a consequence higher rates must prevail. The latest chartered ship is the [illegible], with coal from Baltimore to San Francisco, at or about $7, for April loading. Railroad freights are quiet, shipments for the past week include 109 packages tobacco, 50 cases syrup, 60 packages dates, [illegible] candles, 100 cases milk, 42 bags nuts, 17 cases figs, 28 bags coffee, 222 cases canned goods, [illegible] cases baking powder, 150 cases lanterns, 300 cases wine, 20 cases sardines, 50 cases capers; also quantity of hats, paper, [illegible], etc.

Review of the Grain Market.

LIVERPOOL, Jan. 19.—A leading weekly grain circular says: Grain continued firm and has further advanced. Foreign grain generally six pence to a shilling better. In native grain here was only an occasional rise. Cargoes were firmly held and good business was done. At to-day's market there was moderate business. Red wheat was a penny dearer, white wheat was firm and unchanged. Flour was in good demand, and for some qualities there was an occasional rise. Corn was one penny to two pence better.

Boston Wool Market.

BOSTON, Jan. 19.—The demand for wool continues steady and prices unchanged. Sales of the week 2,000,000 pounds including Ohio and Pennsylvania fleeces, 38@40c for X, 40@41c for XX, 41@42c for XXX and above. X Michigan and Wisconsin fleeces, dull, with sales at 37@39c for X, and for same lots in fine condition 40@39½c. Principal transactions of the week have been the sale of 400,000 pounds of new Australia, to arrive, at 41@47c., combing and delaine fleeces.

San Francisco Markets.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 19.

Receipts—Wheat, 11,000 ctls; flour, [illegible] sks, oats, 1100 sks; potatoes, 700 sks; eggs, [illegible].

Freight.—The general features of the market are unchanged. Shippers evidently do not intend hurrying themselves. The Br. ship [illegible], 1165 tons, has been taken for Liverpool to load flour and merchandise at 37s 6d.

Wheat.—There is a fair inquiry but high asking prices check business. No. 1 white held at $1 82½; shippers refuse to pay over $1 80 or $1 81 as an extreme. No. 2 shipping quotable $1 75@1 77½; sales No. 1 white, March $1 86½@1 87, buyer, March $1 87@1 87½.

Flour.—The demand is fair; market firm.

Barley.—Feed jobbing $1 20@1 22; sales on call board were, No. 1 feed, spot $1 21, March $1 27@1 27½; buyer this season $1 24 and 1 25. There is selling pressure indicating low prices to rule in this market.

Oats.—Market is steady with a fair amount of business doing. Price list ranges from $1 72½@1 80. Sales good Oregon $1 82½.

Potatoes.—Petaluma and Tomales $1 @1 10; river red 65@75c; market dull; overstocked with inferior.

Dried fruit.—Market quiet but firm for choice of most varieties except peats; prices unchanged.

Green fruit.—Apples; no improvement to note either in demand or values in this market. Stocks are large.

Wool.—Eastern Oregon is meeting with more enquiry; no noteworthy transactions reported; market steady at former quotations.

Hops.—Quotations nominal at 80@90c.

Eggs.—Firm. There is a local demand for all offering.

Butter.—Fresh roll 26@28; choice packed 20@22½.

Hides.—Weak and dull; dry 13½c, calf 23c.

NOTES FROM CORVALLIS.

[FROM THE OREGONIAN'S LOCAL CORRESPONDENT.]

CORVALLIS, Jan. 18.

Fifty [illegible] marriage licenses were issued last year by the county clerk.

The initial number of The [illegible], a monthly journal to be published by the literary societies of the agricultural college, is in press.

Mr. R. S. Culverwell, C. E., of San Francisco, arrived here last week under engagement by the [illegible] and has been assigned to [illegible], at the summit, as resident engineer.

The boarding hall and school house at Siletz agency, which were destroyed by fire last fall, are to be rebuilt in the spring, the department having directed the agent to forward plans and estimates, that the necessary means may be provided.

Work has not stopped on the Oregon Pacific tunnel, as reported. Your correspondent to-day called at the railroad office, and was informed that the work is progressing as usual. The tunnel is [illegible] out of a two or three days' stoppage at the summit on account of bad weather. An additional gang at Corvallis will start for tunnel No. [illegible] to-day.

Johnson Porter, whose name is mentioned in connection with the murder of Mr. Cummings at New York bar, is a young man of 22 years, and was born and raised in Benton county. He went to Nevada about one year ago, prior to which time he resided at Corvallis. While here he was regarded as an exemplary young man, and his character was unblemished. Those who know him best are confident of his innocence.

WOLFE'S

Schiedam Aromatic Schnapps.

As a general beverage, necessary corrective of water rendered impure by vegetable decomposition or other causes, as limestone, sulphate of copper, etc., the AROMATIC SCHNAPPS is superior to every other alcoholic preparation. A public trial of over thirty years' duration, in every section of our country of UDOLPHO WOLFE'S SCHNAPPS, its unsolicited indorsement by the medical faculty, and a sale unequaled by any other alcoholic distillation, have insured for it the reputation for salubrity claimed for it. For sale by all druggists and grocers.
